Diboll To Play Corrigan Tonight In Last Home Game Of This Season

By BETH DURHAM

By the grace of those gentlemen who set up football districts in Texas, the Diboll Lumberjacks will not have to play the Woodville Eagles next year. How the aforementioned football moguls have made the mistake of scheduling those two for so many years is, beyond a doubt, the worst thing that has ever happened to football in Diboll.

The Eagles succeeded in humiliating the Jacks once again here last Friday night, 47-0, before a capacity crowd at High School Stadium. Proving that there is little hope that any team in District 19-A will whip them, the Eagles put on a show of power for two quarters, then settled down for a nnap Friday night as their reserves finished the game.

HIT STONE WALL

The Jacks hit a stone wall in the Woodville line, and fared even worse with their passing attack, although their big trouble was battling the type of ball control the Eagles were playing. With a club like Woodville, however, ball control is an accepted fact, especially when each of their four backs were a threat from any position on the field.

KLOB AND ANTHONY

Most Diboll fans were amazed at the sharp-shooting passing of quarterback Bryant Kolb. John Anthony also left fans agape as he used is ticklish style of running. Both are certainly all-district performers.

This column still sticks by Billy Frank Jones, senior halfback, and Ken Burnett, senior end, for all-district honors, however, Burnett, is a one-in-a-life time boy as far as Diboll is concerned. His pass-catching and brilliant defensive play make him an excellent college prospect

MEET CORRIGAN FRI.

Their biggest headache now in the record books, the Lumberjacks host the Corrigan Bulldogs here Friday night in the last home game of the season.

The Bulldogs, about as unfortunate as the Lumberjacks in season play, pose as a brillant opportunity for the Jacks to work toward evening their score.

Little "D"

Mrs. Calvin Lawrence pleased at graceful dancing of son, Henry, in dance at P-TA show - - - B. F. Hines entertaining youngster - - - Lee Estes buying his mid-morning drink - - Clyde Thompson and Richie Wells talking loud to Harris County deputies - - - Ele Baggett playing a long shot on Texas-SMU ball game - - - Royce Grimes is officially the smallest (far from the worst) quarterback in Diboll history - - - Van Scarborough buying new automobile - - - Arthur Temple, Jr. making talk at Friday's pep rally.

Bob Scoggins and the Village Furniture Co. recently celebrated their first anniversary in Diboll. The establishment, long needed in this town of few businesses, has certaintly proved an asset.

The Village Furniture Co. is probably the most modern furniture store in East Texas. At least, its the most modern we have seen. We are lucky, indeed, to have gotten this type store located in Diboll.

It is our sincere hope that the Village Furniture will spend many more years in our community.

In accordance with population, Diboll is probably the last town in Texas with business establishments. Towns with half the population having twice as many businesses.

However, this situation is rapidly diminishing, due to the location of stores such as Village Furniture. Many of these new concerns have moved to Diboll during the past five years, and I feel safe in saying that many more will arrive during the next five years.

There is certainly room for more than one of each business concerns here. Some may think not, but a little competition goes a long way toward promoting better merchandise, better service, and most of all, better prices.

Anyway, it's better that a town grow sort of slow and easy rather than go on a boon and flutter out overnight.

See you next week.

—PAUL DURHAM

Construction Starts On Portland Cement Project At Orange

Construction work on the new $3,000,000 Texas Portland Cement Plant at Orange, Texas, may be completed within seven month, according to Kent B. Diehl Sr., president and managing engineering of the Company.

The Texas Portland Cement Company, a Texas owned and operated corporation, will utilize sea shell, gypsum and clay in the manufacture of 1,500 barrels per day of high-grade Portland cement, Diehl said. The proposed marketing area of the Company lies within a 150 mile radius of the plant and will cover the Gulf Coast and the lower East Texas area, including Beaumont, Port Arthur, Baytown, Houston, Texas City, Galveston, Freeport, and to the north, Lufkin and Nacogdoches. The Louisiana area served will include Lake Charles, Lafayette and Alexandria.

In preparation for production, the Company recently let a contract to the Kennedy Van Saun Manufacturing Company of New York for the purchase of $1,300,000 worth of machinery. Under this contractual agreement, the Kennedy-Van Saun Manufacturing Company will furnish technical personnel and engineers and guarantee the rated 1,500 barrel per day output, Diehl pointed out.

Diehl explained that most of the contracts for the construction of the plant have been accomplished on due bills; that is the work is done without any money being paid out by the Company, as the contractors agreed to accept their payments in cement out of 20 pct. of each day's production after the plant is in operation.

The clearing and grubbing on the 38-acre plant site which is being done by the Keown Contracting Company of Orange is nearing completion as is the 1,200 foot inland barge channel off Sabine River, which the S. Perry Brown Construction Company of Houston is digging to accommodate the company's six shell barges.

The Board of Directors also awarded a contract to the Mexico Refractories of Mexico, Missouri for fire brick and installation. This firm will supply and install high-alumina refractory brick for lining the Company's huge 10x300 foot kiln and the 8x 60 rotary clinker cooler and the transfer chamber. Refractory work is scheduled to begin immediately and is expected to be completed within three months.

Diehl explained that a contract was awarded recently to the William H. Smith Construction Co. of Houston for laying 950 feet of railroad siding. Trackage is laid so that it can be doubled or extended at a later date.

Honor Roll Listed By Local Schools

The first six weeks honor roll of Diboll's Junior and Senior Hi Schools have been released by Robert T. Ramsey, principal.

Carried each sir weeks in The Southern Pine Lumber Co.'s News-Bulletin as a public service, they will be found elsewhere in this edition.

Minor Fire Reported At Treating Plant

A minor fire was reported at Treating Division last week. The fire broke out as a result of congested material catching fire at the plant's incinerator.

Treating plant officials reported little damage was done. The blaze was extinguished by members of the Diboll volunteer fire department.

BEN RAMSEY, Lt. Governor of Texas is pictured above as he made a brief address to some 700 Dibollians here on Diboll Day. Mr. Ramsey later presented Miss Betty George as Diboll Day Queen.
The Lt. Governor, Mrs. Ramsey and their daughter were on hand Diboll Day Night for the coronation and the Light Crust Doughboy show.

Diboll Main Streets Receive Improvement

During the past two weeks Diboll's main streets have been getting a 'new look'.

State Department workekrs applied a new coat of asphalt and gravel on both sides of Hi-Way 59 from Porter's Service Station to the South Side of The Village, virtually making that one mile stretch of road a four lane thoroughfare.

The area around The Village received the same application of new gravel and asphalt.

Streets in Diboll proper are also getting attention, both from the county and Southern Pine engineers. The main street leading from Southern Pine offices to the Treating Plant, about a mile overall, is now under construction for hard-topping. Other Diboll streets have all been shot with gravel.

The days of muddy and dusty streets in Diboll have come to an end.

Treasuries To Benefit By Department Duty

The State and county treasuries of Texas were nearly $2 million richer at the end of August due to the activities of the License and Weight Division of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The annual report of the DPS unit, released today (Oct. 27), indicates that $1,876,003 was collected and paid into the state and county coffers as a result of cases filed during the fiscal year, Sept. 1, 1954 through August 31, 1955, for violations of Texas' trucking laws.

The money represents payment of fines assessed and additional registration fees collected in 26,626 cases filed by the License and Weight Division of the State Safety Department.

The report shows a total of 272,782 equipment checks during the period which, actually, make the truckers look pretty good in view of the fact that the 26,626 cases filed indicated that violations were found in only 9.7 pct. of the trucks checked.

The largest number of cases filed, 5,068, was for failure to have a Railroad Commission permit.

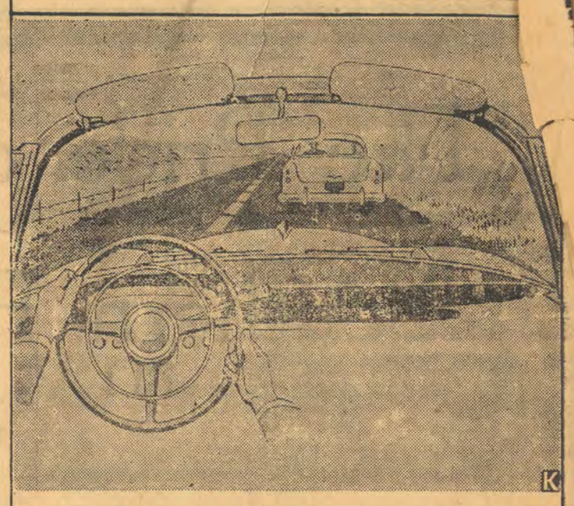
YOU CAN ALWAYS SPOT AN EXPERT



When you're driving along the open road . . . or on city streets, you can always spot the expert behind the wheel. He might be a teenager in a small car or Dad out for a drive with the family.

Whether it's a roadster or a big sedan . . . you can tell the expert by his smooth driving . . . his road judgment. He always travels at reasonable speeds. Not too fast . . . not too slow. He's sure of himself . . . sure because he's careful.

The next time you're driving . . . watch for the driving expert. Drive like an expert . . . there's a difference that pays!

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

Washington—The congressional hearings on automation provided convincing testimony that automation is absolutely essential for the nation's industrial development.

Automation has been pictured by some as a scare word - - - something that will throw millions out of work by replacing them with fachines.

Actually automation should be regarded as something which will raise the standard of living for the United States and for the world - - - and something that actually will increase overall employment.

Just what is automation? Automation really got its start the congressmen were told, millions of years ago when our ancestors tired of doing everything with their hands. One day one of our granddaddies discovered that jagged pieces of flint were better than his bare hands for doing certain work.

This sounds elementary today but it was a revolutionary development then. And, that was the real beginning of automation.

Ever since then people have sought ways to increase their efficiency and output by using tools and machines instead of muscles.

Modern America has led the world in application of scientific progress to the satisfaction of human wants and has constantly opened new frontiers for the betterment of all mankind.

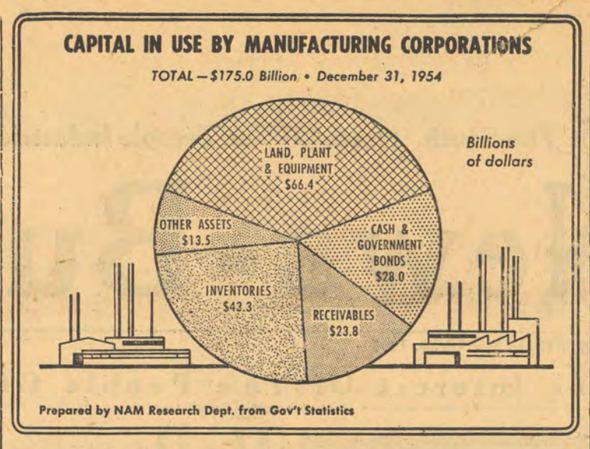
From the dawn of the steam age, we have advanced steadily into new worlds, of electricity, of the internal combustion engine, of powered flight, of communications, of transportation, of electronics and, now, of atomic power.

Now there has been developed ingenious control mechanisms such as the electric eye, mechanical brains, and other intricate electronic and radiation devices, which can direct and control the operation of machines.

The production engineer has at his disposal machines and devices for controlling them which when put together in proper sequence, can turn out a continuous flow of products without human hands touching them during the manufacturing process.

To reach our goal we must make the breakthrough into automatic operation as soon as possible. The faster we can do so, the more rapidly we will reach our objective.

Life in America then will be richer, better, more rewarding—with greater opportunities for the young, increased satisfaction for adults, and more tranquility and comfort for the aged.



BLURBS AND THE MOVIES

Molly and George, on a combined business and pleasure trip to the Big City, sat in their hotel room after dinner trying to decide on some entertainment for the evening.

"There's a couple of stage shows I wouldn't mind seeing," the Mr. began, "but I sure mind paying five or six bucks over the box-office price to some scalper for seats."

"They call them 'brokers,' dear," Molly said.

"When they leave you scalped, they're scalpers to me!" George retorted.

"Well, what about a movie, then? They should have some good ones."

George reached for the evening paper. 'Let's see what's playing at that big one down the street." He looked at the ads.

"How's this, sister? Here's one advertised as "The hottest love scene since the days when Garbo and Gilbert were burning up the screen,' "

Molly's face showed her distaste. George went on:

"And here's what they say about the second feature: 'What happens to a gal shipwrecked on a desert island with three amorous men.' - - - Want to see 'em?'

"Who in the world would, if that's what the theater says about them? Let's go window shopping, George!"

Tie hit Up—With Red Tape

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — A brilliant new ruby red lipstick is now being acclaimed by leading fashion designers as the year's most exciting color news.

Winding its way through the entire fall fashion scene and tieing up the fashionable with the feminine, the new lipstick, called Red Tape, was created by Max Factor, Hollywood's noted make-up authority, to underline and dramatize the new season's smartest fabric colors.

This "frankly female" shade, warm and rich as a jewel in its ruby red hue, is a color that provides striking and singular accent to the glamorous make-up that is emerging as a flattering contrast to the single-minded simplicity of fall fashions. With clothes whose lines depend on the natural, gentle contours of the figure, make-up plays a more dramatic and feminine role than ever before.

Max Factor's glamorous new lipstick shade is the perfect complement to all the deeper, enriched, new fashion colors; the night-darkened blues, lucid greens, vibrant blue-reds, and the new pinkish-browns that have excited all Paris.

In addition to high fashion suitability and timeliness, Red Tape has the distinction of being the only non-smear type lipstick with the inborn stay-on lustre that remains color-fast on lips from morning coffee-time through cocktail-time and on into evening activities.

Red Tape was obviously created to get feminine lips beautifully involved.

Manufacturing Corps. Use Public Capital

It takes a lot of capital to keep America's manufacturing corporations going and growing. In 1954 it took $175 billion worth. This was the investment necessary for manufacturers to produce goods and keep people employed.

Of this total investment, $66.4 billion was tied up in land, buildings, tools and machines. Inventories accounted for $43.3 billion. Receivables—the amount owed by customers on the orders they have received but not yet paid for—came to $23.8 billion. Cash on hand, or invested in U. S. Government bonds, amounted to $28 billion. Ready cash is necessary to meet expenses of various kinds—including payroll and taxes—as they fall due.

HOWDY

As a member of the local P-TA, though inactive I must admit, since all of my children are too young to go to school, I have been requested to comment on the proposed trip for the senior class this year.

Seems there is some objection on the part of some of the older folks due to the fact that last year a few of the seniors got out of hand on the trip and did some things that reflected to the discredit of the entire class. I do not state this as a fact because I am uninformed exc[ept] heresay, to which I [attach] much credence. But [some]thing could have happ[ened] entire group of fne young girls and boys to be dis-credited because of the indiscretions of a few? And is this year's class to suffer for the sins of others who passed this way before them? And are we oldsters so old that we can no longer remember a few of the thoughtless deeds we committed when we were foung, and it is just possible that if we could roll back a few years we m[ight] commit again?

As I said in a previous column I do not think we should sell the young people short. Three times in my life I have seen the young folks pull this country out of a hole, and I know that, inherently, young folks are honest and want to do the right thing.

Now for what ever it may be worth, I offer this suggestion; let's make it possigle for this year's senior class to have a trip. They'll only be high school seniors once in their lives. Let's remind them of the adverse criticism ensuing from last year's trip, and again let me say it is only hearsay on my part, and let's put them on their honor, with the admonition that what they do and say on the trip will reflect either to their honor and credit, or to their dis-honor and dis-credit, and will, beyond a doubt, affect the possibilities of future trips for future graduating classes.

In other words let's show our kids that we know they are the best, from the best town, in the best section of Texas, or the U. S. A. for that matter, and that we expect them to uphold that honor whereever they may be, and I am sure they will not let us down.

This is not written in a spirit of criticism. I am not in a position to criticize anyone but myself. It's just that I love and believe in the youngsters and I know from experience, when put upon their honor they will come through.

It's The Law

Many persons feel that the "whereases", "aforesaids", and other legal verbiage is used by the lawyer for the purpose of confounding the layman.

Nothing could be further from the truth. In drafting legal documents, the lawyer attempts to draft them in such a way as to exclude all ambiguities. In the last analysis, a legal document means what some court at some future time shall declair what it means. As a consequence, it is the lawyer's duty to his client to attempt to draft the instrument in such a way that it can mean only one thing.

Most any paragraph of non-legal language contains numerous ambiguities. When a lawyer refers to the 'deed aforesaid', he is attempting to make it clear beyond question that the deed he is referring to is the deed mentioned in a prior portion of the instrument. Likewise, when he prefaces a legal document with a long list of "Whereases", he is simply reciting pertinent fact for the benefit of the court to show the facts of the situation that lead to the execution of the instrument.

The difficulty with drafting a document in layman's language is that to the trained analyst the language is susceptible of several meanings, and consequently is likely to lead to litigation. It is the draftman's purpose to avoid litigation which is usually expensive for the client.

Teachers Assn. Elects New Officials

Sixty thousand teachers will select their state officers for the Texas State Teachers Association during the first week in November.

Floyd W. Parsons, superintendent of schools at Beeville, has been nominated as candidate for the office of vice-president. His candidacy is sponsored by the Beeville Association and the Beeville Classroom Teachers Association.

A graduate of the University of Texas, Parsons has served continuously since 1933 as classroom teacher, principal, and as superintendent in the public schools of Texas.

Pasons is past president of the District III TSTA and served as chairman of the State Steering Committee that drafted the Certification Program recently passed by the legislature. He is a member of the Executive Committee of Texas Association of School Administrators, a member of the Committee on Ten, a member of the Texas Conference on Public Education, and is state chairman for the National Education Association Building Fund [illegible] member of the TA.

CLOUDS AND SUNSHINE

It has been hoped that Defense Department spending could be cut to $33,000,000,000, this fiscal year. But Secretary of Defense Wilson says that, because of increased costs, it now looks as if the spending total will be $34,500,000,000.

Admittedly this is a serious situation for those who insist on having a balanced budget in the sights before considering cuts.

However, the Republicans explain that the fiscal picture is not all clouds and shadows.

They cite these factors:

1. Tax revenue is increasing and this could provide the government with enough money to bring a balanced budget within sight. The more people and corporations earn the more taxes they pay—and the more products they buy the more excise taxes the government gets.

2. The effort to economize is continuing not only in the Defense Department but throughout the entire government. Officials are bein urged in every way possible to eliminate waste, extravagance and duplication. Whatever success is achieved will bring a balanced budget that much nearer.

3. Some members of Congress contend that there should be a substantial reduction in financal aid furnished other nations by the United States. These legislators say they will urge the next Congress to trim foreign aid in order to help balance the U. S. budget.
