WEST POINT OF AIR MAY BE ESTABLISHED NEAR SAN ANTONIO

San Antono, May 1.— With more than five million dollars immediately available for the construction of necessary buildings at the Air Corps Traning center and approximately $3,000,000 included to deficiency bills now before Congress army aviators appear to be nearing realization of their long cherished dream of establishing a West Point of the Air.

The City of San Antonio has succeeded in obtaining title to all of the necessary land 15 miles outside of town and work on the new field is expected to start some time this year. According to information aailable at Air Corps Training headquarters here the following sums are immediately available for starting work on the first two units of the huge new air training plant:

The sum of $1,011,0000 appropriated in the first deficiency bill of the Seventieth Congress for barracks, $300,000 for officers' quarters and $610,000 for air corps technical construction in the regular appropriation bill for Brooks and Kelly Fields; $304,000 for quartermaster structures; $68-375 for telephone and telegraph systems and $214,900 for technical construction in the second deficiency bill as well as $2,685,000 for barracks and quarters, quartermaster structures and utilities.

In all a total of $8,591,425 is either available or before congress. This would be sufficient to start construction of the firstt two units of the field which would take care of the priary training now carried on at March Field, Cal., and at Brooks Field. Approximately $1,000,000 would be needed to complete them and should Kelly Field be moved nto the West Point of the Air, between $4,0000,000 and $5,000,000 would be required.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Selman left Saturday night for Corpus Christi, where Mr. Selman went on business.

Mrs. Bertha Poland, owner and operator of the Poland Cafe, has been quite ill for several days the past week.

Carter Scroggins and Herman Stewart are in charge of the Service Drug Company this week in the absence of Wilson Selman, who is out of town on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dudley, Miss Jennie Lee McMullen and Miss Eva Lewis were in attendance at the fifth Sunday B. Y. P. U. rally held with the Moffett church last Sunday.

COURT ADJOURNS IN HONOR OF DEPARTED MEMBER OF THE BAR

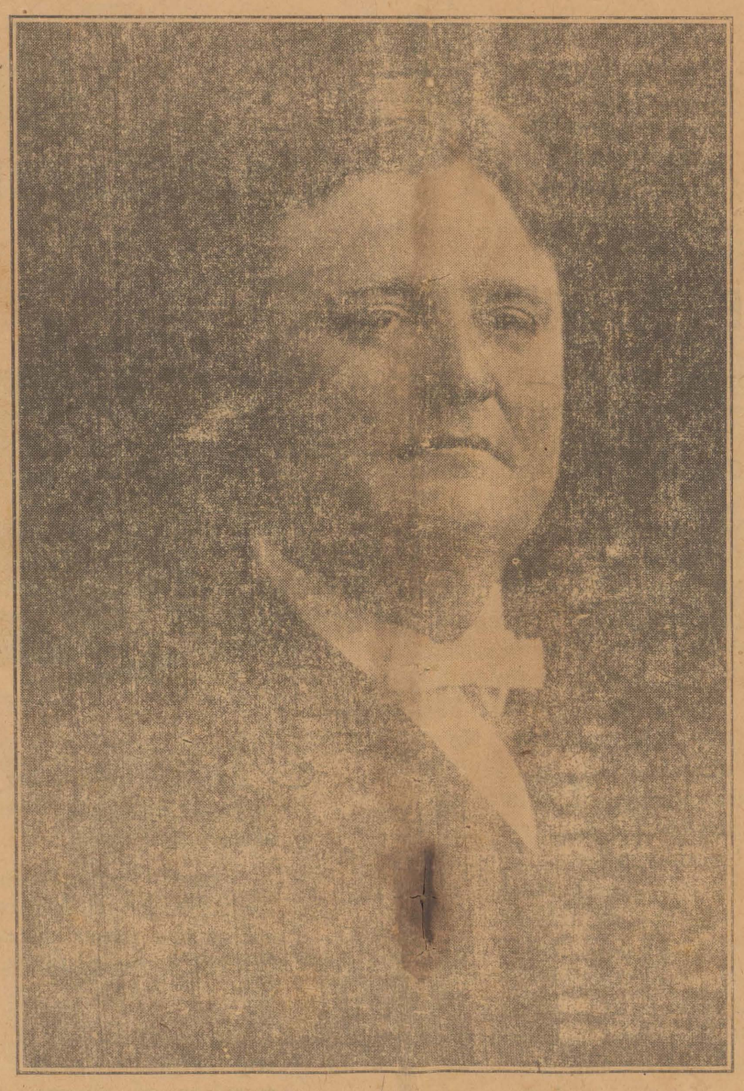

When the announcement of the death of Senator Fairchild was made in the district court room this morning, Judge Hodges bowed his head and adjourned court to be reconvened after the funeral.

The court had been quite active up to this time, however, and a large number of litigants from various sections of the county were present. The civil appearance docket had been called and a special venire of 75 had been drawn to try the case of the State vs. George Hubbard, charged with murder in connection with the death of Jim Lee here last year. Lee was brutally murdered in the switchyards of the Cotton Belt railroad at night as he was en route to town with his wife, who was employed in a restaurant. John Ballinger, another negro, tried at the last term of court, was found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the same case. Ballinger made a confession in which he implicated the man Hubbard. Hubbard has admitted that he was present when the murder was committed, but denies that he participated in the commission of the crime.

The first case to be called yesterday, George W. Dykes, et al, against the Southwestern Lumber Company, was transferred to the Federal court at Tyler by Judge Hodges on the court's own motion, and not by agreement, as was reported.

P. W. Winter of Woodville, Tyler county, will be here thru this term of court assisting Judge Thomas F. Coleman in the trial of his civil cases. Mr. Winter is the County Attorney of Tyler county, and while here assisting Judge Coleman is a guest in his home.

SENATOR I. D. FAIRCHILD

The body of Senator I. D. Fairchild arrived this morning over the 3:00 o'clock E. & W., being accompanied from Dallas by a brother, C. B. Fairchild, a law partner, John S. Redditt, and W. J. Townsend of Wichita Falls, and were met at the depot by a large number of sorrowing friends and accompanied to the parlors of the Glenn Undertaking Company, where they remained until this morning, when they were taken to the family home on North Raguet street.

The funeral party was joined at Nacogdoches by a large number of friends of the deceased and accompanied to Lufkin.

Funeral services will be held in the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, with Revs. W. T. Renfro, E. A. Maness and Dr. E. W. Solomon in charge. The remains will lie in state in that church from 1:30 to 2:30 tomorrow, thus enabling the hundreds of friends who will throng the city the privilege of paying the last sad tribute to this most influential citizen, whose demise has cast a shadow of sorrow throughout the state.

With the conclusion of the religious services at the church the remains will be taken in charge by the Masonic Lodge of Burke, from which Senator Fairchild had never removed his membership, and this fraternal organization, together with that of Lufkin, the membership of which have been invited to assist in the last sad rites, will accompany the body to Ryan's Chapel near Burke, where the interment will take place with Masonic honors.

This old family burial ground was the spot where Mr. Fairchild had desired to be placed, for it is here that his mother, grand-parents and many other relatives have been buried, and it was in and around Burke where he was born, reared, attended and taught school, spent his boyhood and young manhood days up to the time he was 25 years of age.

Then, too, the old friends and associates, many of whom will be unable to attend the funeral services here, will be given the opportunity of again viewing the face of the one whom they all loved and whom they never failed to honor with their vote of confidence for any measure he advocated. The casket will be opened near the grave at the church tomorrow afternoon, and the sorrowing friends of that community allowed to gaze upon the countenance of one whom they loved and admired.

Among the distinguished visitors who have signified their intention of being present are Senators Pollard of Tyler, Miller of Weatherford, Bowers of Caldwell, Hall of Harris, Lewis of Navasota, Love of Dallas and T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, the latter a very particular friend of the deceased, who had asked and been granted the privilege of paying a short tribute to the memory of Senator Fairchild at the funeral services. Other notables who are expected to attend are Governor Dan Moody, ex-Governors O. B. Colquitt, W. P. Hobby, James E. and Miriam Ferguson, J. A. Glenn, superintendent of the Santa Fe, who is already in the city, while large delegations from Nacogdoches, Rusk, Jacksonville, Tyler, Crockett and other East Texas cities will attend in a body.

The family has been literally covered with messages of condolence from all sections of the state, while the home has become the bower of the most exquisite flowers that nature can grow. Flowers of every conceivable hue and color, beautiful and fragrant, in wreaths and other attractive designs, from lodges, organizations, individuals, sent by admirers and sympathizers from every section of the state, render a homage to the memory of the senator that could not have paid any other or in a more fitting and beautiful way.

All business in the city will be suspended during the service tomorrow out of respect to the memory of a man who loved his town, his county and his state, and whose place in the counsels of his party will be most difficult to fill, and whose winning personality won for him a host of friends among all classes, all creeds and all colors.—Lufkin News.

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP OPENED WEST OF P. O.

L. T. Shelton, a native of Nacogdoches county, has moved with his family to Huntington and has opened a new blacksmith shop just west of the post office.

Mr. Shelton tells us he is an "old hand at the game," and believes he is well qualified for giving the people of Huntington and vicinity the kind of blacksmith work that will please them. He says he also does all kinds of woodwork, and gives everyone a cordial invitation to come to see him when they have any of this kind of work to be done. In fact, he asks everyone to come around and see just what he can and is doing.

See his advertisement in this week's issue of the Messenger.

Miss Bernice Shoffner was able to be out among her friends Tuesday after having been shut in for the past few days with a case of the measles. Her friends are glad to see her out again.

Miss Jennie Dudley left this week for a several weeks' visit with R. T. Dudley and family of Houston.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. McKewen of Nacogdoches spent a day or two this week in Huntington visiting in the home of Mrs. McKewen's mother, Mrs. Matthews. Mr. and Mrs. McKewen will soon be residents of Huntington again.

SPRING SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT IS COMMENCED TODAY

Spring term of district court for Angelina county convened here this morning at 9:00 o'clock, with District Judge C. A. Hodges presiding.

The morning session was devoted largely to organization of the court. The grand jury list of sixteen men which had been drawn was found to be short two men after the excuses had been heard and those entitled to consideration had been excused by Judge Hodges, and Sheriff Youngblood was then dispatched to find two men to make the full complement of 12. The grand jury as finally impaneled and approved is composed of the following Angelina county citizens:

Dan McKewen, Huntington; Cicero Hill, Lufkin, Rte. 1; Pete Alday, Diboll; J. A. Lewis, Lufkin; R. C. Arnett, Camp Nancy; George Burnaman, Ewing; E. A. Percy, Lufkin; Nimrod Berry, Lufkin; S. M. Tucker, Pollok, Rte. 1; Lee Burke, Burke; I. J. Albritton, Burke; J. B. Pickard, Zavalla.

The bailiffs, selected by the grand jury are: Kelly Driver, door bailiff; W. H. Wright, Lufkin; E. T. Jones, Huntington; Albert Richey, Camp Nancy; J. E. Loving, Lufkin, W. G. Chancey, Pollok.

The jury docket was called after the organization of the court and all the cases represented by Fairchild and Redditt were continued for the term on account of the serious illness of Senator Fairchild, who is in a critical condition in a Dallas sanitarium.

The first case to be called was that of George W. Dykes et al, against the Southwestern Lumber company, in which 160 acres of timber land and $10,000 were involved. The case was transferred by agreement to the Federal District Court at Beaumont.

Judge Hodges, in his charge to the grand jury, told them to inquire diligently into the reported cases of wire cutting on the government's leased holdings in this county, where it is said that wire has been cut repeatedly and the game has been allowed to wander away at will. Other depradations and unlawful acts were also pointed out as subjects for investigation.

The charge was along the usual lines, and the judge admonished the jurors to be fair and just and, under no circumstances to allow personal feelings or grudges to enter into the finding a bill of indictent. He read the law to them, pointing out specifically the duties of grand jurors.

The present term of the district court promises to be fraught with less absorbing interest than usual on account of the fact that very few felonies are docketed for trial. The county, as a whole, appears to be more peaceable and law abiding than at any period in its history, and comparatively few grave cases

FORMER LUFKIN BOY WRITES INTERESTING LETTER FROM ALASKA

W. R. McMullen, Jr., Gives Description of Trip to and Impression of Seward, in Far Away Alaska.

The News takes pleasure in producing a very interesting letter from its young friend, W. R. McMullen, Jr., who recently left for Seward, Alaska, where he has accepted employment with his uncle, Clarence McMullen, who has been located in that country for many years past. Reed writes a splendid letter, newsy, with mention of sights seen on the trip that savor of the powers of descriptve writer of no mean ability.

Seward, Alaska,
April 12, 1928.

Mr. Clayte Binion,
Lufkin Daily News,
Lufkin, Texas.

Dear Mr. Binion:

Arrived in Seward on the 30th of March and on going to the postoffice found several copies of the home town paper and since then have been receiving the Daily regularly. The trip from Seattle to Seward is seven days of varied scenery, as the first three days the steamer is in the famous inland passages winding through the Thousand Islands, then across the Gulf of Alaska to Seward, which is the terminus of the Alaska Steamship Co. After being at sea three days the boat entered a long stretch of water bound on both sides by snow capped mountains with fringes of dark green trees at the base. The passengers getting off at Valdez, which is the fartherest point north in the world where steamers may land the year around, had to be lowered to the docks by cranes as the harbor was so full of ice the steamer could not get to the docks. The sunsets in this country are beyond adequate description. One of the prettiest was at La Touche, and as the boat pulled away from the dock one could see the mountains of snow covered by all the various hues of color of which light may be divided into, and at the bottom of the mountains nestling close to the waters were bright red cottages of veneer that were in vivid contrast to the spiral shaped trees back of them.

The scenic grandeur of Seward and vicinity can not be exaggerated. The little twon is situated on the shores of Resurrection Bay. The harbor is entered between two gigantic rocks, and once inside the Bay it seems to be surrounded by mountains. Last Sunday Abney Singleton and I tried to climb Marathon Mountain, but at this time of the year snow is several feet deep, so we only got up about 300 feet. The mountain gets its name from the fact that on the Fouth of July a foot race is run from the middle of the town to the summit of the mountain and back down again. The best time in which it has ever been made is 57 minutes.

The people up here have every convenience that can be had in the states and read such magazines as the Literary Digest, World Work, etc. Even the Eskimos laugh about the Teapot Dome scandal. The natives for the most part are Eskimos, but some are a mixture of Aleut, Russian Jew and Negro. Seward has only one road, which is eighteen miles long, but there are a large number of cars here for a town its size, even having several taxis. Seward is the center of a large fishing trade and when the old seamen come in from a good catch they will hire a taxi to go about three blocks. Seward's other industries are mining and a little agriculture during the short summer. The midnight sun is not very strong here as Seward is on the southern coast, but the residents say that in July the nights are never dark, being light enough to read a newspaper with ease.

At the present I am staying with my uncle, P. C. McMullen, working in his store and intend staying here a good while, but even now look forward to returning to Lufkin. With the best wishes to you and family, I am

Your friend,
W. R. McMullen. Jr.

CANADIAN BUSINESS RAPIDLY INCREASES

Houston, May 1.—Case R. Howard, manager of the foreign business department of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, New York agency, one of the delegates to the National Foreign Trade convention here, after hearing many speakers at the convention eulogize trade between the United States and Latin America, left a message just before his departure for New York showing that trade with Canada also is of prime importance to this country.

"Attention is being brought to bear more and more," he said, "on the future possibilities of trade between Canada and the United States," and followed it with the assertion that it had increased one million dollars a week for a year ending March 1st, last, when the total approximately was $2,347,646,338.

"Today Canada is the greatest customer of the United States," he said, "and the volume which is at present flowing across the border between the coutries will still further increase."

DWINDLING RANKS OF OLD CONFEDERCY FORM AGAIN MAY 8

Litlte Rock, May 1.—Loyal and enthusiastic as the young men who battled in the sixties, despite the fact not one of their number now is below the age of three score and ten, heroes of the gray are coming back to Little Rock on May 8 for the thirty-eighth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

Seventeen years have passed since the old soldiers met here, and during this time they have counted their losses by the hundreds. The army which pitches camp here in 1928 will be but a remnant of the forces last here.

In 1911 they marched with lively step in the parade—always the greatest event of the reunion—but this year most of them will ride in automobiles. The youngest of them, however, still will insist on marching, and once again the "rebel yell" will resound, while in the evenings all will gather to recount stories of brave deeds and stirring incidents.

From all parts of the south and some from other sections of the country the veterans will come. Major Giles B. Cook and Major G. W. B. Hale, both of Cambria, Va., and the only surviving members of the staffs of General Lee and General Early, will attend. Preparations are being completed to entertain 6,000 veterans, as compared with 12,000 in 1911.

General J. C. Foster of Houston is the present commander-in-chief. The four from among whom the new commanding officer is expected to be elected are General R. A. Miller of Abilene, commander of the army of the trans-Mississippi department; General Homer Atkinson of Petersburg, Va., commander of the army of the North Carolina department; General A. T. Goodwin of Elmare, Ala., commander of the army of Tennessee department; and Major R. A. Sneed of Oklahoma City, 87-year-old state auditor of Oklahoma.

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, a native of Yazoo, Miss., will deliver the principal address. The twenty-third convention of the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the twenty-ninth convention of the Confederated Southern Memorial Associations, with many representatives of the Daughters of the Confederacy, are expected to add several thousand visitors during the reunion.

GOD, GIVE US A MAN.

O God, while issues of vast import
Confront on every hand,
And the shadows of a coming storm
Fast gather o'er our land.
Let there be found a man of men
Who in Thy name and might
Will never fear to speak Thy truth,
And stand for Thee and right;
Lord, guide us as our need demands,
This our prayer we make;
Dear Lord, let not unhallowed hands
Our sacred birthright take;
Thou, God, help us to choose aright,
Keep faith in a faithless age,
Preserve and keep by Thy great might,
Our ancient heritage.—Jesse H. Kincaid.

LONG HAIR COMING BACK IN FASHION

New York, May 1.—Women are coaxing their tresses to grow down to their waists again, observes Louis Fabian Bachrach, photographer, and he prophesies that by 1930 the bobbed head will be the exception rather than the rule.

The prediction is based on figures compiled in eight cities. Selecting 100 women in each of the cities who have been photographed at least three times since 1922, Bachrach arrived at the following statistics:

Although approximately 75 per cent of the feminine population of the east wore bobbed coiffures in 1922, less than 30 per cent are bobbed today. The percentage of long-haired women in Boston is 81; in Baltimore, 77; Philadelphia, 76; New York, 73; Washington, 72; Cleveland, 68; Pittsburgh, 65; and Detroit, 60. The number who had let their bobbed locks grow long varied from 25 in Detroit to 40 in New York.

"I believe the figurs represent the real trend of women's views on the subject," Bachrach said.
