This was the year that most students and teachers decided that DHS is not such a bad place after all.

We won bi-district in volleyball. The football team was second in district. U.I.L. literary participants did well. The band got new red uniforms.

WORK OF ADMINISTRATIVE

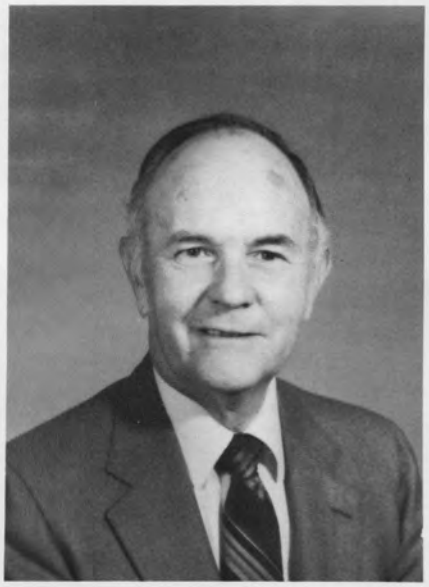

Constant change is fundamental; nature insures it. In this year of Texas' Sesquicentennial celebration, we have met many challenges of change.

Even with so many new experiences, there is one unchanging commitment in our school. It is the continual effort to provide you, the students, firm yet compassioned direction and guidance.

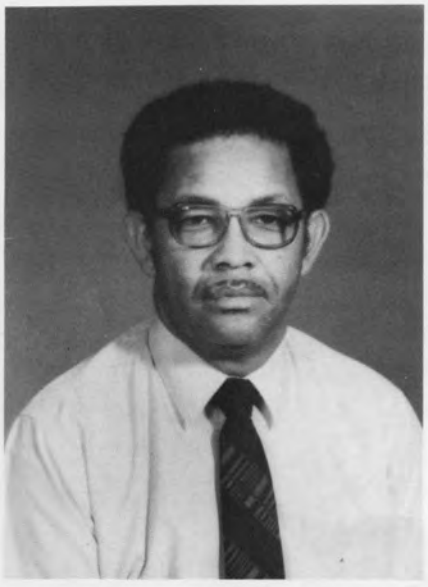

As you successfully reach each level of your educational career, your opportunity increases for success in life. Your educational experiences in Diboll Schools are only the beginning.

This is why we say, " . . . Education is a journey, not a destination."

Four years before the Alamo, he helped light the torch for freedom right in the heart of East Texas.

William Barrett Travis is best known by Texans as the heroic commander at the battle of the Alamo. But his leadership in the struggle for Texas independence began much earlier.

In 1832, his imprisonment by the Mexican governor at Anahuac in Liberty County so inflamed East Texans that they raised an army to free Travis and posted a document named the Turtle Bay Resolutions.

Travis's confinement and the Resolutions became a rallying point against the abuses of the Mexican authorities and were among the first steps taken in Texans' fight for independence.
