In Memory

A Memorial tribute to those that have gone on.

A Fallen Limb

A limb has fallen from the family tree.
I keep hearing a voice that says,
"Grieve not for me,"
Remember the best times,
the laughter, the songs,
the good life I lived while I was strong.

Continue my heritage,
I'm counting on you,
Keep smiling and surely,
The sun will shine through.

My mind is at ease, my soul is at rest,
remembering all how,
I was truly blessed.
Continue traditions,
no matter how small,
go on with your life,
don't just stare at the wall.

I miss you all dearly,
so keep up your chin,
until the day comes we're
TOGETHER AGAIN.

The following list of names are those of family, friends, teachers, each one having left behind a cherished memory and touched the lives of each of us. The Alumni Association of H.G. Temple School, dedicate this entire Reunion to your memory.

A Memorial Tribute To A Legend

John "J.B." McCullough
Christian, Friend, Humantarian, Father, and Brother

It was a double blow to all of us when the news came that the life of our friend had ceased. His fun loving ways, and continuous smile will forever be etched in our minds. It is with great honor that we pay tribute to his memory. As you turn the pages of our upcoming souvenir books both past and present you will see some of his works. He contributed a number of the photographs seen in these publications. We the officers and members of the H.G. Temple Alumni Association salute this Life of a Black man and Thank God for giving us the opportunity of knowing him.

Long Live His Memory .....

From the Desk of the President

Dear Alumni / Alumnus / Former Teachers

It is again that I take this means to say "Welcome," to all of you that are returning back for another reunion. Since our last gathering a number of classmates and teachers has gone from labor to reward.

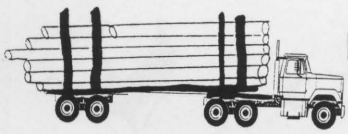

To us they will always be in our minds though not in spirit. So many other things transpired so fast that adjustment appeared almost impossible for alot of them. I give thanks to God almighty, and a supportive staff for seeing me through a lot of difficult times. Just as I was beginning to think about wrapping up, my tenure members united to let me know that the work here was a blessing not a curse.

Though many obstacles have come across our path we seem to have held on through a united effort and prayer. I want to take this opportunity to thank the Alumni members that yet remain in the race. Don't ever feel that I am ungrateful for all you do, unselfishly for the good of the organization. Also special thanks to those true friends who continue to offer your support and encouragement, not only to the association but to me personally. At times I've been made to feel that my ability to govern this association is unappreciated, outdated, and ineffective however this feelings will with support was fleeting. As this reunion proceeds I must say Thank you to all that has appreciated the efforts, and shared of yourselves and your means. If there are those that exist that don't feel the usefulness of the current staff is passe. Your words of encouragement and continued support are in order.

This book is dedicated in the memory of many parents, of this community that put forth the best efforts to ensure that we their children had the opportunity to learn and be the best we could. Also to the memory of Louise Massy and John "J.B." McCullough. We the Alumni Association of H.G. Temple salute the memory of these great people. "All of this from the Heart." May you continue to be blessed.

Louis Mitchell
President.

PIONEERS IN THE MAKING OF A SAWMILL TOWN "DIBOLL"

This is a brief history of the struggle and hardship of the parents and grandparents of the students of H.G. Temple High School and how they came through a time of depression and dismay. But we must look back a little further.

Somewhere about 1908, Diboll was being established as a sawmill town. Logging was dangerous work in addition to being hard and sometimes unforgiving. The people depended on the mill for their survival. At that time, it was known as Southern Pine Lumber Company. Times were hard, and work was scarce. Families usually followed the work wherever it led them.

No one really thought of themselves as being poor. It was just a way of life that seemed to engulf everyone in much the same manner except for the "Colored" workers (as they were known then) who had to work twice as hard for half as much. A Quarter Boss who carried two guns and a vagrancy law to enforce was insurance for the company that the mill would operate. One could go to jail or be fined for not working. Although there were people who wandered in and out from time to time and stayed for short periods of time, there were lots of men looking for work, so vagrancy laws were rarely enforced. Most people who had jobs were doing everything possible to hold on to them.

Ten cents, 15¢, and 25¢ an hour was typical among the workers. Everyone lived in what were called company houses. The rent was affordable at about $4.00 a month. Water and electricity were free. Electricity was generated by the company's single generator; and with limited electric power, not everyone had the access. What few houses that had electricity had the power turned on at 5:30 a.m. and off at 10:00 p.m.

There was a boarding house and rooming house for workers and families unable to obtain a company house. These living quarters were maintained and operated by Mrs. Etta Goldman. Her dining room table in the boarding house was about 20 feet long. Boarders ate breakfast and supper there and carried their lunch to work, usually in syrup buckets. Rent from the rooming house was paid to the company, and the boarding was paid to Mrs. Goldman.

Most of our parents and grandparents held what you might call a masters degree in domestic engineering or what some of us may refer to as "Mother Wit." Nevertheless, they seemed to be able to take "nothing" and make "something" out of it not only just in cooking but in every basic necessity that arose. It was this kind of togetherness that brought us through hard times. In sickness where hospitalization was out of the question, they would spend all night vigils with the sick, taking turns staying up and administering care to the sick. They had midwives to call on such as Mrs. Ella Stadham whenever that need was present.

Some Colored workers held key positions in the production of lumber at the mill and also in the woods. Walter Allen, the first Colored foreman over the mill pond and in whose honor our community park is named, is one of those men.

Copied from an original at The History Center, Diboll, TX www.TheHistoryCenterOnline.com 2010:040

All kinds of weather, hot and cold, would find Mr. Allen and Tom Casey on their routine walk across the mill pond stepping briskly from log to log to select a special log to send up on the log trough chain to the log carriage to be cut into rough lumber. There waiting to receive it would be one of several men sitting on a steam driven carriage which grabbed the log and positioned it to be cut into whatever board thicknesses required. These men were called blocksitters. They were Jessy Flournoy, Jim Henry, Frank Osaw, Peter Cross, Morris Rhone or George Odom.

When the log had been cut into lumber thicknesses, each slab traveled on to the trimmer saws where Mr. Fenny Simmons (an edgeman) trimmed the slabs to get the best board feet of lumber. Somewhere down the line, you will find one of us in a two-foot square hole about waist deep separating the waste trim from rough cut lumber coming at us at about five feet a second, a dangerous job known as "fighting the bear."

That was green lumber and it had to be stacked so there we were again. The lumber was stacked because it had to be dried. There were two methods of drying, either by sun or by kiln.

Stacking lumber was an art. It had to be done in such a way that wind and rain could weave in and out between every board of lumber in order to prevent it from becoming water saturated due to rain. Some stacks of lumber averaged 15 to 20 feet in height. The best drying time for lumber was in summer at high heat. It was stacked during that time also, and the entire lumber yard was located in sunny areas.

Using the kiln method of drying, you would find Albert Jones and K.J. Spencer. They both specialized in the storing process of the lumber into the drying kilns. They used cable driven cars stacked with lumber and maneuvered them to various stalls on tracks that led into the kilns. They had to enter these kilns in which temperatures ranged in the hundred of degrees.

When lumber was dried, it went to the planer for finishing and grading. Grading lumber required a sharp eye with special skill. Such lumber graders were Mr. Wolfie Peterson, Ray McGue, John Henry Coleman and Mr. McKenly.

Logging was a tough job. It was known as working in the woods. Falling trees claimed more lives in accidents than we care to talk about. Cross cut saws using two men on each end were used in cutting down trees. It was back breaking work. It was the arrival of the chain saw that increased the production of logs. In that department once again you find us specializing in the use of the machine.

Among the first to do so was Albert Mitchell, well known for his ability to direct the fall of any tree he cut. He became known as one of the highest authorities on tree harvesting. There is a statue of him that stands in front of the company's Corporate office that speaks of the nature of his work that was created in his own lifetime.

Log handling moved from mill pond fed to direct in-feed decks where logs were placed on the deck by crane. Colored workers were not allowed to operate heavy equipment until Norris Blunt came along. He was the first Colored to operate the first crane used to move logs at the mill by this method.

Diboll might not have happened if Southern Pine Lumber Co. and its president, T.T.L. Temple had not decided to abandon the old philosophy of "cut out and get out," a "clean sweep" technique of tree cutting and adopt a more profitable method known as "sustained yield" and if the people had not just simply stayed in the area hoping that work would be here for them one day.

Colored men would go out and hang around the job areas hoping there was something they would be asked to do. In some instances they would just simply join in and help for free.

The company paid off in cash, but they also had another medium of exchange known as "commissary checks" in denominations of 5¢, 10¢, 25¢, 50¢ and $1.00 which could be used to purchase any item in the commissary. There were also "white horses," slips of paper signed by the time keeper which okayed a certain amount to be used to purchase goods.

Our parents went through many ordeals during those times, all the suffering, torment and danger that they went through just in order that we may survive. When they were shuffling shamefully and bowing down in undignified manners, they were saving our lives. So we salute our parents for their bravery, expertise and wisdom. After all that has been said here, somehow it just doesn't seem quite complete without saying "thank you, Mom and Dad."

I want to extend a special thanks to those listed below who helped to bring out the history of our parents' struggle through this era.

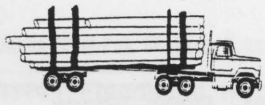

Mrs. Alberta "Missy" Garrett
Mr. Cleo "Sweet Pea" Drake
Mrs. Joy Mae Smith
Mrs. Della Louis
Mrs. Mable Freeman
Mr. Henry Ligon (pre-recorded)
Rev. Cary Smith (pre-recorded)

Sincerely,

Jim Ligon
