SELF—ASSOCIATION

(Reprint from The Dallas News)

(Zore Neale Houston, Negro novelist and playwright, a Barnard graduate and holder of — both Rosenwald and Guggenheim fellowships, wrote these views to the editor of the Orlando, Fla, Sentinel.

I promised God and some other responsible characters, including a bench of bishops, that I was not going to part my lips concerning the United States Supreme Court decision on ending segregation in the public schools of the South, but since a lot of time has passed and no one seems to touch on what appears to be the most important point in the hassle, I break my silence just this once. Consider me as just thinking out loud.

The whole matter revolves around the self-respect of my people. How much satisfaction can I get from a court order for somebody to associate with me who does not wish me near—them?

The American Indian has never been spoken of a minority and chiefly because there is no whine in the Indian. Certainly he fought, and valiantly, for his lands, and rightfully so, but it is inconceivable of an Indian to seek forcible association with anyone. His well-known pride and self respect would save him from that. I take the Indian position.

—o—

Now a great clamor will arise in certain quarters that I deny the Negro children of the South their rights, and therefore I am one of those "handkerchief-head niggers" who bow low before the white man and sell out my own people, out of cowardice. However, an analytical glance will show that is not the case.

If there are not adequate Negro schools in Florida, and there are some residual, some inherent and unchangeable quality in the white schools, impossible to duplicate anywhere else, then I am the first to insist that Negro children of Florida be allowed to share this boon. But if there are adequate Negro schools and prepared instructors and instructions, then there is nothing different except the presence of the white people.

For this reason, I regard the ruling of the Supreme Court as insulting, rather than honoring, my race. Since the days of the never-to-be sufficiently deplored Reconstruction, there has been current the belief that there is no greater delight to Negroes than physical association with whites, the doctrine of the white mare.

Those familiar with the habits of mules are aware that any mule, if not restrained, automatically follows a white mare.

Lead a white mare along a country road and slyly open the gate and the mules in the lot would run out and follow this mare. This ruling being conceived and broug t forth in sly political medium with eyes on 1956, and brought forth in the same spirit and for the same purpose it is clear that they have taken the old notion to heart and acted on it. It is a cunning opening of the barnyard gate with t e white mare ambling past. We are expected to hasten pell-mell after her.

It is most astonishing that this should be tried just when the nation is exerting itself to shake off the evils of Communist penetration. It is to be recalled that Moscow, being made aware of this folk belief, made it t e main plank in their campaign to win the American Negro from the 1920's on.

It was the come-on stuff. Join the party and get yourself a white wife or husband. To supply the expected demand, the party had scraped up this and that off park benches and skid rows and held them in stock for us. The highest types of Negroes were held to be just panting to get hold of one of these objects. Seeing how flat that program fell, it is astonishing that it would be so soon revived. Politics indeed makes strange bedfellows.

The South had better Beware in another direction. While it is being frantic over the segregation ruling, it had better keep its eyes open for more important things. One instance of government by fiat has been rammed down its throat.

It is possible that the end of segregation is not here and never meant to be here at present, but the attention of the South is directed on what was calculated to keep us busy while more ominous things were brought to pass. The stubborn South and the Midwest kept this nation from being dragged farther to the left than it was during the New Deal.

But what if it is contemplated to do away with the two-party system and arrive at government by administrative decree? No questions allowed and no information given out from the administrative department? We could get more rulings on the same subject and more far reaching any day. It pays to weigh every saying and action, however trivial, as indicating a local trend.

In the ruling on segregation, the unsuspecting nation might have witnessed a trial balloon. A relatively safe one, since it is sectional and on a matter not likely to arouse other sections of the nation to the support of the South. If it goes off fairly well, a precedent has been established. Government by fiat can replace the Constitution—You don't have to credit me with too much intelligence and penetration, just so you watch carefully and think.

—o—

The Supreme Court would have pleased me more if they had concerned themselves about enforcing the compulsory education provisions for Negroes in the South as is done for white children. The next 10 years would be better spent in appointing truant officers and looking after conditions in the homes from which the children come. Use to the limit what we already have.

"Them's my sentiments," and I am sticking to them. Growth from within. Ethical and cultural desegregation. It is a contradiction in terms to scream—race pride—and equality while at the same time spurning Negro teachers and self-association—That old white mare business can go racking on down the road for all I care.

(NOTE: If anyone labored under any misaprehension, the point was that we do not wish Mr. Warren nor any other — MAN— presiding on the SUPREME COURT ? ? ? —issuing proclamations ? ? ?—Whereby, with whom we may eat, sleep, and otherwise associate with — BUDDY)

WATCH THE LIGHTS

Optimism is the green light at the crossroads that starts things rolling.

Pessimism is the red light that stops everything.

You will notice that one feature distinguishing America from less progressive areas abroad is that we are basically an optimistic people.

We have learned to hope for the "impossible," and then set out to make it come true.

Voters To Decide School Issue In Joint Election Sat. May 12th

BY BETH DURHAM

Voters will go to the polls in Diboll and Burke Saturday to determine whether the schools will consolidate as a unit.

Polls will open promptly at 8 a.m. and close just as promptly at 7 p.m. Polling place in Diboll will be the Community Center, while Burke residents will cast their ballots at the Burke School building.

A majority vote to consolidate would bring some 170 students into the Diboll school district. According to a joint meeting of school trustees held last month, however, the school itself would remain in Burke thus eliminating transportation problems.

At present, Diboll has an average daily attendance of 1000 is concerned.

Indication of how the election might go has not been registered, although some verbal objections have been raised by Burke residents.

Saturday will tell the tale.

See next week's N-B for the complete follow-up.

FARMERS GET HOPE

Farmers over wide areas of Texas are full of optimism. The long awaited rains, the heaviest in years, fell in North, Central and East Texas.

However even where it rained, substantial moisture deficiencies have not been wiped out. But to many farmers the wonderful rains that finally came made them look forward to a good year.

Little Tommy Ross Plays For The Boss

BY BETH DURHAM

Little five year old Tommy RRoss has selected a hobby early in life — one that might well lead to a beneficial vocation some day.

Tommy plays the violin. Last week he performed for the Diboll Lions Club and received acclaim from businessmen and the civic leaders for his wonderful accomplishments at such a tender age.

The son of Mr. Tecumpsy Ross of Diboll, Tommy played for the Lions: "Rock and Roll Waltz", Tennessee Waltz," and "Down Yonder."

Foster King of the Diboll Music Center is instructing Tommy on the violin. He has told many of hiis friends how well the five year old performed but few believed that the youngster could do so well.

Great things could be in store for Tommy. In such a manner did many famous men get their start.

BY C. F. LORD

During the week of April 21-28, simultaneous revivals were held in all the churches in the Woodville District, culminating in a general fifth Sunday April 29 rally, at Diboll with all the churches participating. Approximately one hundred and fifty people attended the rally.

Morning services were under the direction of Rev. Harold Pitts, president of Westminster College at Tehuscana, who also led the singing.

The message was brought by Rev. Marvin Sheffield of Dallas, president of the state conference board.

An old fashioned dinner was spread on the grounds at noon. The congregation reassembled in the church building for a program of song and testimonials.

The next fifth Sunday rally, July 29, will be held at Beulah. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Winder said that mercury lights were planned for the Pinedale area and in the vicinity of the Scout House. Barbecue pits and tables are also planned for that area.

Two lights will be erected on Farm Road 58 nert to Diboll Hi-School.

CLYDE THOMPSON presided over Democratic Convention at the Fire House Saturday; only 19 men and one woman were present for the convention.

At the precinct convention on Saturday, those in attendance voted to send an uninstructed delegation to the County convention Tuesday. They were instructed to vote as a group.

Right now, though, it looks as if Senator Johnson has the upper hand in being named the Texas chairman to the Democratic convention in Chicago.

The big school election is this Saturday. We certainly hope our story last week concerning the right to vote has cleared up the mistake made in this paper last month.

There seems to be no one who will say how the election will go. No one will comment (and I certaintly can't determine) on how the folks up in Burke feel about consolidation, although—there are a number of residents against it.

As we have said before, a majority vote in favor of consolidation will open the door for other schools to merge with the Diboll system, if they so desire.

Diboll's growth in the last eight years, plus its expected growth in the future, should entice at least three schools to come here.

Correction

The News-Bulletin said in a story on the literary meet at Corrigan, that Barry Smith of Diboll won a first place ribbon in Sub-Junior Declamation.

Barry did win first place, but he is from Hudson High and not Diboll.

Southern Pine Will Increase Dry Kiln To Meet Demands

New construction will commence immediately at Diboll to enlarge the dry kiln capacity of Southern Pine Lumber Company by thirty per cent in order to take care of increased occasioned by the purchase of the timber formerly owned by Frost Lumber Company in East Texas, it was reported by Joe Carter Denman, production manager for Southern Pine Lumber Company's plant there. Simultaneously, it was announced that the new expansion program at Southern Pine Lumber Company Pinelart is being modified to adapt to a larger production of a quality lumber which will be made possible by this purchase.

"As recognized leaders in quality production, we have for 62 years recognized the indispensible virtue of the most careful and skillful seasoning possible," says Denman.

No increase of production can be contemplated by us without the most detailed consideration of seasoning requirements.

Builders of quality houses use only properly-seasoned lumber. A large part of Southern Pine Lumber Company's success is attributable to our unwaiving dedication to giving the finest lumber that money can buy.

HERE IS SOUTHERN PINE LUMBER COMPANY'S newest piece of macinery. It's a diesel-electric, 45-ton unit, recently acquired from Southland Paper Mills in Lufkin. "Remember Dr. Allen Stockdale, who spoke at the Rotary banquet last year?" Molly began as she and George sat down to dinner.

"I sure do. One of the best speakers we ever had—inspirational as well as entertaining."

"Well, I saw in the book store this afternoon that he has written a book. It's called 'Unconventional Prayers.' And that's just what it is—more than a hundred little spontaneous prayers that almost anyone could make to meet the many things that come up in the course of a day."

"Sounds like a fine idea," said George. "I don't see any reason why prayers should be formal, conventional . . ."

"That's just the point Dr. Stockdale makes. He says that prayer should be as natural in its expression as the other daily thoughts and actions of our lives—and that through these little unconventional prayers, we may feel nearer God, and feel more deeply His love and understanding compassion."

'The Boy Friend' Is State Fair Feature

Dallas — "The Boy Friend", second of the six State Fair musicals productions for 1956, is perhaps the least known of the attractions, yet it has been delighting Broadway audiences for the past two years.

The gay musical was equally successful in England where it has been pllaying for the past three years. In fact, it is the first British musical since Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet" to duplicate its London success in New York.

"The Boy Friend", written by the young English composer—Sandy Wilson, is a travesty on the musicals of the Twenties as their happy disregard for probability and their infectious joy In roaring "20s style, it is complete with demure heroine, flappers, the poor but handsme hero and a French Riviera setting.

The company to be seen at the State Fair Musicals is the original British Broadway qo. since it has been proved that only the English can do justice to this gay musical farce.

The priority period for season tickets to the State Fair Musicals is now open and will remain on a priority basis until May 12. On May 21 new season ticket orders will be accepted at the State Fair Auditorium box office, 1315 Elm St. Dallas.

HINDERING EXECUTIVE

Administration officials fear the results of a recent antibusiness move by the House Banking Committee — that it will greatly hinder if not prevent, the establishment of an executive reserve of businessmen for government service in the event of an emergency.

What the Banking Committee has done is this: It has added an amendment to the Defense Production Act requiring executive reservists to disclose their financial holdings when appointed to the executive reserve — and every six months thereafter —by publication in the Federal Register. It is definitely an effort to keep businessmen out of government service.

Government officials object strenuously. They explain there is absolutely no reason for this requirement, since the reserve program is limited to training activities looking toward possible future government service.

And this is the clincher: The reservests are strictly prohibited from advising, consulting or acting on any matter pending before any department or agency. So the disclosure requirement would be unwarranted privacy invasion.

Vets Q's & A's

Q—My World War II GI insurance policy is on the endowment plan. When it matures, would I be permitted to receive the proceeds in monthly installments guaranteed for the rest of my life?

A.—No. But you do have the right to choose one of two methods of payment: (1) lump sum or (2) equal monthly installments ranging in number from 36 to 240, in multiples of 12.

Q.—Is there any time limit for applying for disability compensation?

A—There is no time limit. A veteran may apply at any time during his life. However, if he applies within one year from his discharge, his compensation may be back-dated to the date following his discharge if circumstances warrant. Otherwise the payments will be effective as of the date of application.

Tom Moore Pledges Continued Fight

A continued fight to clean out corruption in government was pledged Wednesday by District Attorney Tom Moore, Jr. of Waco in announcing his candidacy for attorney general in the Democratic Primary.

The 37-yearold McLennan Co. district attorney, now serving his second term in that office, declared that the state office enable him to conduct on the state level an expanded legal campaign against corruption in government. As district attorney, he has played a key role in the grand jury investigation of the U S Trust and Guaranty investigation and investigation of possible violations of Texas election laws.

"The limited jurisdiction of an investigator in a single county has prevented a complete and a thorough investigation of corruption in Texas government, Mr Moore said in announcing his candidacy.

When Russ Meyer was with the Dodgers, it was always accepted that he was the best dresser on the club. But now that he's gone to the Cubs, says The Sporting News, Duke Snider rates the nod as the best-dressed Dodger.

DAN FENLEY

SHOWN ABOVE ARE MEMBERS of the fund committee which directed fund raising for the new Shiloh Baptist church here. Construction was begun last week to rebuild the church after impressive ground breaking ceremonies were held last Saturday. Arthur Temple Jr. was principal speaker at the Ceremonies. Committeemen are Finis Henderson, C. R. Hunt, and Robert Smith.—N-B Photo.

Washington is doing very well with its promotion campaign. The Senators already have more than 200,000 tickets sold. They played to only 425,000 customers all of last season.

Rumors are that next year's tax forms will contain only three questions: How much money have you? Where is it? How soon can we get it?

Hugh Conner is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Conner of Ratcliff.

At a recent meeting of the Friendship Club, the president, Mrs. Ben Wheeler resigned and the vice-president replaced her. Mrs. Lester Flowers was elected vice president.

LABOR LAW

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd was forced into the role of apprehensive spectator in the fight to save T'exas' right-to-work law.

He asked, but was refused, U. S. Supreme Court permission to be heard. He did however, lend moral support and advice as Nebraska's attorney general argued in the high court for his state's law.

Nebraska, like Texas and 16 other states, has an anti-closed shop law which unions contend is in conflict with the National Railway Act.

Reason for Shepperd's apprehension is the general belief that Nebraska's case is weaker than the Texas case, which still is tied up in state court.

In bitter precinct battles, Gov. Allan Shivers lost the first skirmish of his long political career. Sen. Lyndon Johnson led all the way in the rural areas. He also won in San Antonio, in Houston, Ft. Worth and Austin. Of the metropolitan centers, — Dallas alone went for Shivers.

Just as the rural vote cost Ralph Yarborough the governorship in 1954, so did the small towns defeat Shivers in 1956. In the final analysis, it was the Country Boy's vote that was the hub of victory.
