A friend told us the other day that he thoroughly enjoyed reading The Diboll News. His only reservation was that there just wasn't enough of it in each of our weekly editions.

This certainly is true. However, the situation may stay just as it is until all odr friends in town and in the surrounding communities start sending in their news — regularly.

Its a fact that when you want something published in an out of town paper you take it to the newspaper office. The same — sould be true here. It's an impossibility for us to know the news in detail which happens in and around Diboll unless we have the help of all odr citizens.

Our above-mentioned, out of town friend was surprised to learn that Dibollians turned in so little news.

The Diboll News is not only a newspaper, but in some ways could be considered a record. In these pages are stored, for future generations, the play by play account of how this town was originated, how it grew, who made it grow, and those who lived and died here while it was growing.

All persons in and around Diboll and in the southern tip of Angelina County are invited and urged to address their news items to: The Diboll News Bulletin, Diboll, Texas. Or, after 5 p.m. ddring the week, dial the editor at 2226. Call the same number anytime on Saturdays or Sundays.

With opening date for the new cafe not far off, The Village seems to have taken its last business establishment, at least for the time being.

Like most others, however, we know nothing of future plans of business houses here. It seems that another spot will be selected for further expansion, unless the space behind Bennie Rector's service station is utilized. There is, of course, plenty of room on Hwy. 59 from The Village for several businesses.

And, if rumors materialize, a new shopping district may develop arodnd the residential district said to be planned for Diboll south of the Pinedale Addi-

Ruth Now In Race For State Representative

In announcing as a candidate for State Representative, I fully realize the extreme importance and responsibilities of the State Representative's job.

I fdlly realize that a State Representative must be physically and mentally prepared for the office in odder to fulfill the duties that will be imposed upon him. I submit myself as a candidate because I feel that I am physically able to stand up under the fast pace and long hours of work required of your State Representative. I believe that I am fully qualified, educationally, to fdlfill this position because the work of a legislator is in line with my legal training and my background. My legal education and experience will enable me to start to work immediately for the people of this legislature , district, without any loss of time and without having to spend years learning legislative processes.

The office of State Representative is most important to the people of this county and the entire State of Texas. Remedial legislation is needed immediately to prevent further occurences such as the insurance and land scandals that have marred the face of good government in our State.

My training and experience as a school teacher have familiarized me with the problems that now face our schools, school children and the school teachers. This experience and training will enable me to immediately start work and assist in bringing about better conditions in our schools.

My working experiences and the practice of law have acqdainted me with the problems of every group of people. If elected to the important job of State Representative, I will be able to work toward a solution of those problems without any undue loss of time.

In submitting myself as a candidate, I assure you that I am physically able to stand the long hours and hard work that will be required of your elected official, and that I am educationally and morally qualified to represent the majority of the people for the maximum amodnt of good legislation.

Judge Yarborough said in his opening speech he stressed — "platform of progress for Texas" and the need for "the restoration of honesty, decency and integrity to Texas' state government."

July Draft Call Set At 641 In Texas

Austin—The July draft call for Texas asks for 641 men, as compared to 586 for June, Lt. Col. Marlin D. Lewis, deputy of the State Selective Service director, announced Friday.

This is the state's share of a national call for 13,000 men, all for the Army.

At the same time, Colonel Lewis announced a July call of approximately half the state's draft boards for 1,099 men to take pre-induction physical and mental examinations for future calls.

He said that the boards not receiving a qdota for these examinations in July already had been called upon to furnish men for examination in June.

Local board calls for July induction examination were scheduled to have been mailed from state Selective Service headquarters on June 1.

The July quota will be filled with men who are 22 years of age or older on July 1, with the exception of delinquents, or volunteers, who may be youngers.

Colonel Lewis said he expected the Jdly call to be filled py volunteers and men without any children. He said delinquents are liable first, but the state has next to none.

He warned young fathers they must advise their boards about children or an expected child. If a local board is not advised about the birth of an expected child, the board "naturally proceeds on the idea such a registrant is childless and he is ordered for service."

Free donuts will be served in the Village Food Market all day tomorrow, Friday June 8.

Everyone is invited to visit the Village Food Market and watch the cooking demonstration, Scoggin said. Donuts will be plentiful.

In this meeting the class formed their Exes Club and officers were elected. Harold Dean was elected president and Phyllis Salmon was named secretary treasurer.

ON FLAG DAY

Old Glory Is 179!

We observe June 14 as Flag Day because it was on that date in 1777 the Flag by resolution of the Continental Congress, came into being, with "thirteen stripes of alternate red and white, with a union of thirteen stars of white in a blue field, representing the new constellation" in the Western skies.

Our flag was first carried by American troops in the Battle of the Brandywine the following September, and tradition says the first Old Glory was made by Betsy Ross of Philadelphia, at General Washington's request.

Texas Prison Population Outnumbers New Residents

Texas is the only state in that the prison population is growing faster, percentagewise, than the number of new residents.

Rev. Robert S. Tate, president of the Texas Social Welfare Association, made this statement to the Harris County chapter on Wednesday night to emphasize the need for a state department of probation and paroles.

"Texas is one of the three — which hasn't such a department, —he said. "We just have a board of pardons. Consequently, except in six counties, parole is almost non-existent.

"There is, moreover, no uniform means of checking up on or rehabilitating released prisoners."

The association also is vitally concerned with the manner in which persons are now committed to state mental institutions, Tate declared.

"Texas is now the only state making a trial by jury mandatory for such commitments," he said. "We want permissive legislation, so that in emergencies the trial can be waived."

"They are still overcrowded, with more than 20,000 inmates," he said. "They are even more seriously understaffed.

"The crowding is largely due to an excessive ndmber of the aged, whose troubles actually are senility.

"We have for several years been urging the governor to appoint a commission to study the problem of the aged. This first step has not yet materialized."

"Make That Last One For The Road Coffee"

Jayne Mansfield, star of Broadway's hit play "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter" advises in this picture "Make that last one for the road COFFEE!"

Miss Mansfield is posing with the "biggest coffee pot in the world," especially provided for the summer vacation safe-driving campaign by the International Silver Company.

In 1955, according to statistics compiled by The Travelers, insurance company, 37,800 persons lost their lives as a result of automobile accidents — 2,300 more than in 1954; 2,158,000 were injured — 19,800 more than in 1954. With more automobiles on the road in 1956 than in any previous year, the number of accidents on the highways seems likely to increase unless the public responds to the many cautions by authorities and civic organizations urging safe driving.

Temple Retail Division Expanded To Total Of Forty-One Retail Yards In Texas

Temple Lumber Company, retail division of Southern Pine Lumber Company in Diboll, Texas, will be expanded to a total of forty-one retail yards effective June 1 according to D. G. McNair, general manager of the retail division.

Occasion for the announcement was the absorption into the chain by managerical contract of six Temple Builders and Supply yards which are located at Texarkana, Tyler, Longview, Marshall, Nacogdoches and Odessa, Texas.

The Temple line itself was merged into Southern Pine Lumber Company in February of 1956 along with the Temple Lumber Company forest products plant in Pineland.

The Temple yards were at the start a Temple interest back in 1914 as the Texas Lumber Co. in Hodston, Texas. Since that time the line of yards have expanded over most of Texas.

"Our Temple system of being responsible local citizens in every community while applying the advantages of central purchasing for maximum quality has made it inevitable that the Temple Lumber Company retail division should expand," according to D. G. McNair.

"As with other divisions of Southern Pine Lumber Company the quality concept which has guided all of our planning and policy has paid off handsomely."

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Beware of Barracks Lawyers ....

You don't have to be a lawyer to form an opinion on a legal subject. However, it is bad business for a layman to pass such an opinion on to others to guide their actions. He may cause them to suffer substantial losses.

Because of the vast intricasies of the law, a simple set of facts often give rise to difficult legal problems. In spite of this, there are many persons who persist in passing out legal advice on all problems, pounding the table, qdoting rules, and loudly expounding opinions. Beware of these persons, because their free opinions are usually worth what they cost, and often can be the unintended cause of harm to those who rely on them.

For example, George Jones owned a small drug store. He agreed to sell the store to Harry White at a time when he had $1,000 to various creditors for medchandise he had bought for the store. George and Harry were in the back room one nite discussing who would pay these debts. George suggested that they talk to a lawyer.

Just then Yilbdr Knowall came into the room, and heard the discussion. He assured them that thede was no necessity to see a lawyer. He told George to keep the debts, "to avoid complications." As to telling George's creditors of the sale, Wilbur said that was unnecessary because George was still liable to pay them. George and Harry decided to follow Wilbur's advice.

Several weeks later, after Hardy had taken over the store, a representative of one of Geo. creditors came in and demanded that Harry pay the debt that George had incurred. Harry defused, but went to see a lawyer to make certain. Harry was surprised to leadn that he had failed to comply with a Texas Statute in buying the store withodt giving notice of the sale to George's creditors. He further learned that the sale was void as to them, and that he was liable for George's debts.

When Mickey Mantle of the Yankees hit a ball over the right field wall in Kansas City's Municipal Stadium recently, it was only the sixth time a drive had cleared it. The ball not only traveled more than 400 feet from the home plate but also cleared the 40-foot wall.

The most economical lumber you can use

Is The Best That Money Can Buy . . .

REVIVAL—In many parts of the United States, architects are reviving the old colonial and plantation styles of home building. Here is a good example. Columns, tall chimney and white painted Southern Pine walls afford the nostalgic touch, while the use of properly graded seasoned lumber in the framework assures durability comparable to that of the originals, many of which are two centuries old and older.

A revival of colonial and plantation - style architecture is reported in certain parts of the United States, and many of the originals are left to serve for modern builders.

Along the eastern seaboard, and from Virginia across the South, these centuries old mansions can be found, and it is their elegance in general and their durability in particular that present day arcditects are seeking to duplicate.

Comfortable verandas, stately columns, white painted wood or white washed brick walls and high ceilings, rooms with the gleaming crystal chandeliers, — were the hallmarks of the old homes.

The real secret of theid success however, is less evident to the casual observer. These homes preserved for one, two and 3 centuries because of the careful workmanship that went into the place and the fine, seasoned lumber that was used in the original constduction.

Southern Pine lumber from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and other states was carefullly air dried, before use in the hidden structure, and with the passing yeads developed a quality of iron.

A phenomenon of recent years has been that the old mansions in the Carolinas and elsewhere withstood hurricanes, while less durable homes of recent origin quickly collapsed.

Modern architects and builders are using various dnique means to recreate the old grandeur. Sometimes, a facade of columns or a wing is added to an already existing frame structure. On other occasions, completely new homes are being built with tall chimneys, verandas and other symbols of an earlier day, but with such modern items as builtin garages added. And for the sake of preservation and lasting beauty, today's architects, like their predecessors, are insisting on well seasoned lumber for the secret parts.

Price Support Pro. Speach Heard

An overflow crowd hear Lamar Fleming, Jr., discuss what American's are paying for their price support program.

Mr. Fleming, Anderson, the Clayton and Co.s Board Chairman, was the featured speaker at the 17th Annual American Cotton Congress meeting held here May 31-June 2.

"The supports have accelerated the expansion of cotton growing and of production of alternative materials here and in the other countries, and have contributed to the accumulation of a crdshing surplus," Mr. Fleming said.

"To check this accumulation of surplus, we have resorted to restriction of cotton acreage, and American farmers have been deprived of freedom to plant his cotton on new cotton lands and compelled to reduce their cotton acreage on old cotton lands.

This substantially has stopped the natural migration of cotton-growing to lands within this Country that can produce it at lower price than the less suitable of the old lands, so that natural reductions in the production cost of U. S. cotton have been impeded. Moreover, the reduction of acreage on every cotton farm has increased the cost of proddction of all of them just as running a factory on a short-time basis increases its costs. And the object of checking accumulation of surplus has not been accomplished. Obviously it cannot be accomplished by restricting cotton acreage in this Country; since that has no restrictive effect on cotton production in other countries or on the production of competitive materials here and in other countries.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Last week, I asked you to test yourself by asking your regular passengers what makes them nervous when you drive. Now, let's talk about passenger habits.

Safe driving can depend on them too. What is it about your passengers' behavior that makes you nervous — thus a poorer driver?

Does your husband keep up a running commentary on approaching traffic signals? Such chatter, which shows a lack of faith in the driver's ability, can make anyone nervous. Just tell him how you feel. If he relaxes, you can, too, and everyone can travel more comfortably.

Perhaps Junior has the bad habit of screaming "Look! Look!" and gesturing wildly at practically anything he sees as you're motoring. Naturally, this can distract even the best driver. Explain to him why this behavior is dangerous.

Does Sis clamber from the back seat to the front while you're driving? If she wants to move to the front seat, she should tell you. Then you can pull over to the side of the road, have her get out of the car (always on the right side) and then get in front.

Children should also be taught never to touch the door handles when the car is in motion. They should also be warned not to touch the door-locking mechanism.

Maybe Father worries about getting lost, and keeps asking "Are you sure we're going in the right direction?" or "Shouldn't we have turned off three miles back?". Supply him with a well marked road map and let him check the route for himself. (Your local Shell service station can provide maps with your travel route clearly marked.)

Your passengers may have other habits that make you nervous. A frank discussion can end them, making for greater harmony and safer driving.

New Restaurant To Open Soon

Diboll will soon boast having one of the finest small restaurants in East Texas, according to Latane's Temple, who is affiliated with Southern Pine Lumber Company in that city.

"Using one of the outstanding restaurant consultants in the country, we have planned a restaurant for Diboll which will cater at once to those who like a prompt service at reasonable prices, and those who like fine food served in a pleasant atmosphere.

Temple said: "A few elemental rules will be unweaverlingly observed. The restadarant will be immaculate and the food will be good. We are putting the restaurant in to meet an urged demand in these parts. For more dining establishments of a refined yet substantial nature".

Opening date has yet been announced.

Senior Class Takes Three Day Trip

The Senior Class of 1956 left for Galveston for a three day trip last Monday. They stayed in the Esenel Hotel, which is near the beach, both nights.

The class enjoyed the beach and good seafood while in Galveston.

Chaperons for the trip were: Mrs. A. R. Weber, Mrs. V. B. McKinney, and Mrs. Raymond Salmon, with Mr. Lloyd Burrow driving the bus. To these people the class sends its many thanks.

The trip ended back in Diboll last Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Government Ready For 1960 Census Job

Government officials are getting ready to count noses again.

The Census Bureau is preparing plans to enumerate the people, hodses, incomes . . . even kitchen sinks, of the United States in the summer of 1946.

Bureau officials already are meeting with useds of census information, especially the manufacturers who want to know the size of their national markets.

Through the meetings, the users will reveal what questions they wish to have asked by the 150,000 census takers who will cover the nation four years from now.

The budeau is testing a new electronic reader. It is designed to do the work of many clerks in computing withodt error the filled-out census forms.

Supporting Your Town

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers Magazine, as it might let you have a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of the building of your own town.

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. . . This does not mean you should have a . . . . whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper . . should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by Looking at the paper. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses advertizement of his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business man."

Four Diboll Men On Jury

June Court Term Now In Progress In Lufkin

June court term opened at Lufkin Monday with Judge Jas. H. Moore presiding. Judge Moore ordered a petit jury summoned for court beginning June 11. No petit jury was summoned this week, since all civil cases but one have been settled.

Judge Moore pointed out that names of jurors who do not serve as much as four days must be replaced in the wheel. This is one of the laws governing the jury wheel system of selecting jurors which recently was put into effect in this district.

Prospective grand jurors for this court term are: Charles Hanks of Diboll; D. P. Ballanger of Diboll, I. D. Bargainer of Rt. 1, Pollok, D. C. Satterwhite of Lufkin, H. J. Shands Jr. of Lufkin, G. H. Berry of Route 4 Lufkin, and Johnnie Childers of Lufkin.

Dan McCoy of Rt. 6 Lufkin, B. F. Hines of Diboll, R. E. Holt of Diboll, Don Hackney of Lufkin, Otto Smith, Jr., of Lufkin, W H Cryer of Zavalla, O. S. Jones Jr. of Huntington, and Paul Lowery of Huntington and J. D. Weaver of Huntington.

The grand jury panel was selected by a jury commission of Joe C. Denman Jr., Earl Alexander and O. L. Hubbard.

Workshop For School Lunch Workers; SFA

Nacogdoches—The fifth annual school lunch program workshop has been set next month at Stephen F. Austin State College.

Miss Edna Wilkin, head of the SFA Home Economics department, said the workshop will be held June 25-29. Sponsored by SFA and the School Lunch Division of the Texas Education Agency, the workshop is for the employees of school lunchrooms, supervisors, managers, cooks and others, she explained.

Annually attracting from 50 to 70 lunch program workers, the workshop is under the supervision of Miss Wilkin; Charlies M. Hicks, consultant with the Texas Eddqation Agencq; and Miss Rebecca Reagan, of Nacogdoches, district supervisor of the School Lunch Program.

Mrs. Ira Lacy, manager of the Troup schools lunchroom, is the first worker to register for the workshop.

NO COMMENT

Washington—The nation's capital is full of surprises—especially when politics take over. A few days ago Secretary of Labor Mitchell was addressing the Amalgamated Clothing Workers convention. He made a strong pitch for union support of the Eisenhower administration — even to blaming the state right to work laws on Democratic controlled state governments.

In 1954 Mr. Mitchell voiced a similar disapproval of state laws protecting the right of employees to work without being forced to join a union. A howl of protest followed. Mr. Eisenhower let it be known Mr. Mitchell was not speaking for the White House.

The Republican strategy to date has been to appeal to the individual worker—knowing full well that dnion leaders—almost all in fact—were wedded to the Democratic party.

A week before the Labor Secretary's speech, Chairman Butler—Democratic National Committee head—announced the appointment of an 18-man labor advisory committee. These named were largely presidents or vice presidents of the big internationals.
