The Pineland Star

DEDICATED TO THE PROGRESS OF PINELAND AND SURROUNDING COMMUNITIES

VOLUME ONE — NUMBER 18 | THE PINELAND STAR, PINELAND, TEXAS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1958 | $2.00 PER YEAR

Market News from Southern Pine

"July was one of the best months in history for Temple Seats."

"Last week our sales remained about the same."

Don H. Burnley

"The sale of SPIB 77 lumber products continues at approximately the same rate in August as compared to June and Julv. These summer months have proved to be very active for the sale of No. 2 and No. 3 Common Framing and Sheathing items. This continued activity has created shortages and price increases in these items. We are in hopes that the constant pressure will tend to switch to higher grades."

"The sale of SP Supreme Oak Flooring continues at a very gratifying rate and price increases have been put into effect with slightly higher increases still in sight. There seems to be a slight firming in the Select and Clear market which has lagged behind the No. 2 and No. 1 Common markets."

"The sale of Southern Pine Templetreated products has not been as active as we would like but sales should increase as we move into the fall line construction season. Inquiries for these products are being mailed out slightly more frequently than they have in the past few weeks."

There is no change in the furniture dimension business since our report last week as we have a normal order file and are running our normal 40 hours per week and do not anticipate any change in the near future. While we do have certain bottlenecks which require our running some over-time, our plant in general is operating on a normal 40-hour basis.

$4.5 Million For McGee Bend Dam Clears Senate-House Committee

The four and one-half-million-dollar appropriation to carry on work on the multipurpose McGee Bend Dam through the current fiscal year cleared the Senate-House Conference Committee Monday, bringing it close to the definite stage. Only presidential approval remains necessary to make the funds available.

The conference committee took action Monday in Washington on scores of projects in the nation.

"This action marks a further acceleration of federal water resource project construction in this region paralleling its rapid economic development," declared Brig. Gen. William Whipple of the U. S. Corps of Engineers in Dallas. A score or more of the projects are in the Southwest Division which he heads.

The funds for the dam project are earmarked for relocation of Highway 147, completion of bridges and approaches, and a start on relocation of Highway 63. Work on the embankment will be continued and the spillway completed.

The appropriation cleared the Senate last month and had been voted earlier by the House after proponents beat down a Republican effort to eliminate power generating facilities from the 50-million-dollar project.

The Sabine-Neches waterway appropriation cleared the committee at one million dollars for dredging at the junction of the Neches with the ship channel.

The Senate had approved one and a quarter million dollars for the project, but the action was subject to change because the House voted only one million.

SS Benefits Show Increase In County

Social security benefits are being paid in Sabine County at the rate of $375,156 a year, according to L. R. James, district manager for the social security administration at Lufkin.

"This is a nincrease of about 55% over last year," James said, "in the amount of these old age, survivors and disability payments. Many of these aged people, widows and orphans have little or no other resources. Our studies have shown that something like 9% of them have no cash income besides social security benefits."

James pointed to several reasons for the increase were benefits over last year. One was the payment of benefits to people who were brought under the law for the first time in recent years—self-employed farmers, for example. Other reasosn fo rthe increase were the reduction in the retirement age to 62 for women and the starting of disability insurance benefits to disabled people 50 or over.

James agreed that one factor in the increase may be the business recession. "I'm sure some older people who would have preferred to keep on working have been forced to retire because of the general business conditions," he said. "Also some mothers may be getting survivors insurance benefits for themselves as well as their children because they have lost jobs as a result of the recession."

The table below shows the number and amount of the principal types of benefits being paid in Sabine county:

Retired worker, 336, $19,250; wife or husband, 146, $3,178; widow or widower, 40, $1,428; mothers with children, 28, $1,336; children, 136, $4,374, total all types, 705, $31,263.

Two Precinct One Offices to Be Decided Saturday; Three Others

Only two local races are to be decided Saturday in the Democratic second primary election in Sabine County, both in precinct one. Ira McLemore and C. W. Fuller, incumbent, are in the run-off for Justice of the Peace and H. W. Wright and Homer Hogan are in the run-off for Commissioner.

On the district level, Steve Burgess of Nacogdoches and George Goetz, incumbent, are in the race for State Representative of the Sixth District.

The hottest race which affects voters of Sabine County is the one for State Senator of the Third District. Frank H. Carpenter of Sour Lake and Martin Dies, Jr. of Lufkin have kept their race for the seat pretty warm in this run-off with announcements to the public giving their stands on various issues. Both men have stated that they are for the big McGee Bend Dam, a controversial issue in Sabine County where the pros and cons have had their say in the papers of the district for a good long while.

J. Edwin Smith of Harris County and Robert W. Hamilton of Midland County, in the run-off for the post of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Place No. 1, is the only statewide race to be decided Saturday.

Approximately 2200 voters voted in the first primary in Sabine County, considered a large number in a non-presidential election year.

Zeigler - Williams

Miss Dorothy Zeigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Zeigler, Hemphill, became the bride of LeRoy Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Williams of Pineland, at 8 p.m. Saturday, in the home of the grooms parents. Rev. J. W. Crocker officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with roses and ivy.

The bride chose a light blue dress and blue accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses and showered with streamers.

Miss Hearalle Williams, sister of the groom served as matron of honor. She chose a pink dress and her flowers were an orchid. Mr. Lonie Zeigler, brother of the bride served as best man.

Following the wedding the groom's mother was hostess at a reception. A white cloth covered the refreshment table where at one end, was the tiered wedding cake, embossed with roses and opposite it the punch bowl. An arrangement of pink roses and tall white tapers centered the table.

Miss Ophelia Zeigler, sister of the bride, presided at the cake service. Mrs. Henry Wood, presided at the punch bowl, Miss Ann Jones registered the guests.

After a brief wedding trip the couple will make their home in Hemphill.

Mr. Williams is an employee of Southern Pine Lbr. Co.

Wood Helps Cool House

While wood warms the vision, it also helps cool the house, the Southern Pine Association declares. That's one reason why wood paneled cabinets and walls are so popular in the kitchen. The natural insulation of the material is no small consideration when the pots are boiling.

Because of its natural strength and resiliency, wood is used to build the structures or "back bones" of 85 percent of all homes in the U. S., the Southern Pine Association declares. What makes the "backbone" secure is the process of seasoning (lumber drying). The latter greatly increases the natural wood strength and achieves the proper balance of strength and resiliency. Also, reports the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory, "dry lumber, kept dry, is a permanent material.

ATTIC PROSPECT

Although a high-pitched or steep roof usually costs more than a flat or low pitched roof, it can be more economical in the long run if you require future enlargement of your living quarters. The existence of a steep roof, explains the Southern Pine Association, provides framing already in being for attic rooms. As your family and finances grow, the remodeling can be performed without need of structural alterations. Wood paneling and other finish can be nailed directly to the studs and rafters of the existing structure.

If you've ever tried to track down a rumor, or unscramble a piece of gossip, you know how elusive is the spoken word! Would You Buy A Pig In A Poke?

By FRANK CARPENTER

When you are in the market to buy something you want to know all about what you are getting. You want to know the cost, the performance record, the service that is available when difficulties arise, the warranty or guaranty of performance, the capacity for doing the job, and many other things. It is well to make these inquiries ahead of time, because after you have bought an article it is too late.

So it is with politics. Before you vote for a candidate for any office, you should find out all you can about him. You need to know his personal reputation, his reputation in his business or profession, his community service record, his experience in office if any, and his general ability to do things and work with people. There are other factors, too, but these are some of the more important ones. If you do not know the facts about the rival candidate, you may well buy a pig in the poke when you vote for one about whom you are not informed.

Throughout this campaign I have stressed my record, my reputation for fairness, honesty and sincerity, and my program for the future. I have documented every claim with proof of accomplishment and fair dealing from the record and from voluntary letters of commendation received from representative people throughout the State. I am the only candidate in the race for State Senator who has a record of public service and a record in public office. My personal reputation, despite an attempt by my opponent to tarnish it, is without a blemish. I have run a clean race and stuck to the facts. That is what the people should be interested in hearing.

OPPONENT'S LACK OF RECORD

My opponent does not have any record of community service and has never held a public office. What he will do if elected your State Senator is a question mark. Will he listen to his father, or will he go his own way? There is nothing concrete on which to base any claim one way or the other. You have no way of knowing what this candidate will do, because he has not worked with or for the people in any capacity. You have to take him on trust. A seasoned public servant follows a set pattern. Once he has set that pattern you ca nbe sure that he will not stray from it very far. But how can you anticipate what anyone will do who has never done ony of those things before? If my opponent was interested in becoming your State Senator, why did he not prepare himself for the office by doing those things you reasonably expect a seeker of public office to do and build his record in order to show his capabilities?

If you do not have a record of prior service to run on, then the next best thing is to have an issue. Not just any issue, but an issue that is a good, valid issue that is important to the people—an issue that the people can take to, and where there is a clear cut choice between the rival candidates. Does my opponent have such an issue? The only issue he has ever raised is McGee Bend Dam, which he says he will expedite in every way possible if he is elected State Senator. I have pointed out many times in the pas tthat McGee Bend Dam is a Federal project and can not be expedited in the State Senate. There is nothing that the State of Texas can do in planning or building McGee Bend Dam. But even if there is something that could be done, what difference is there in the public position of the candidates on this project. I have stated in my original announcement, many times since, and again now, that I am for McGee Bend Dam, just as it is being built. I know there is nothing the State Senate can do about building it, buit I have given it my support in the past and will do whatever I can for it in the future, both in the State and in the Federal Congress. So there is no issue to begin with, and even if there were, the announced platform of both candidates is the same. I have a record on the project and on the statewide water program originated in 1953, while I am advised by competent authority that my opponent has no record in the past of assistance to the project and no record of assistance to any public body or project other than a brief service on the Angelina County Hospital Board.

EXPLOITING A NAME

Now that my opponent has been shown to have no record to run on, and no issue to run on, what is there left? Only the fact that his name is a name that has been associated with politics for more than 50 years. A name that his been exploited politically for two generations and which they plan to exploit for at least another generation. If my opponent did not bear this name, but was named John Doe, Jr., how many votes does he think he could get, running without a record, without an issue, and as a temporary invalid unable to campaign for himself? If he was not running on his name, why did he put such a small, insignificant "JR" on his placards? The accent is completely on his family name and that is what he hopes will elect him to this high office.

What magic is there in this highly publicized name? True it has had a lot of publicity, and has been on ballots in this area for 50 years, but what accomplishments can we attribute to it? Outside of personal favors done for individuals in the district, I know of nothing of importance to the East Texas area, the State or the Nation, that has been done by them. Our present Congressman-at-Large had a wonderful opportunity prior to 1945 to render a truly outstanding service to our Country as Chairman of the Dies Committee—the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He got a lot of headlines and his name became well known, but what other results were obtained? He let his chance for fame and honor collapse like a bubble by permitting his project to deteriorate into a personal feud with Pres. and Mrs. Roosevelt. So far as I have ever heard, he did not personally uncover and prove even one communist, although he threw many charges of communists in government and elsewhere.

At any rate he bungled this opportunity so badly that he would not even stand for re-election in 1944 when he had a strong opponent announce against him. Since his return to Congress in 1953 as Congressman-at-Large, what is his record? He speaks not on the floor of the House, neither does he engage in top legislative affairs. (See article in Beaumont Journal of Aug. 8, 1958, so stating.)

He has one of the highest records of absenteeism of the entire Congress, and has been in Washington only four days this entire session. (See article in Houston Post of July 20, 1958.) And after more than 20 years as a member of Congress he is presently assigned to two of the most insignificant committees in the House, namely Merchant Marine and Fisheries, thus demonstrating his lack of influence with his fellow members. Years of service count in Congress and after 20 years a conscientious, hard-working, able Congressman should be high up on at least one important committee. The people of this country have paid or will pay this Congressman $22,500.00 salary, plus extras, this year for four days time in Congress, and 1957 was not substantially better. The name carries no magic in Washington, and it should carry none in Texas.

OPPOSED TO McGEE BEND DAM

As a lawyer the Congressman has represented corporations. That is his privilege and I have no quarrel with him on that. But when he represented his clients in a hearing involving McGee Bend Dam and opposed the dam during a period when he was not a Congressman, how can he contend that he is for the dam? His successor as Congressman was supporting the project at this hearing, and during his remarks opposing the dam, my opponent's father turned to Congressman Combs and said "And I have no political ambition, Judge Combs." In other words, he thought and was not speaking for political purposes. He is for McGee Bend Dam only when it serves his political purposes to be for the dam, but as a private citizen he opposed the dam. If he says that he was only speaking as a lawyer representing a client, and did not express his own personal opinion on the matter, then all I can say is that no civil lawyer is obligated to represent a client when his own convictions are contrary to those of the client, and if he does do so, he must place his fee above principle.

"DYING ON THE VINE"

If my opponent is running on his name, then, give heed to what the bearers of that name have contributed to East Texas. He says East Texas is dying on the vine and he is not satisfied with things as they are in East Texas. What has the man bearing his name done for East Texas during his many years in Congress? What program or programs has he fought for that would help East Texas?

As an individual, he has fought the McGee Bend Dam project that it is hoped will be of major importance to the economy of East Texas when it is completed and as a Congressman he failed to support the project as recently as June 19, 1958, when an appropriation for the project was before Congress, and he failed to go on record at the same time the appropriation bill was being heard on a proposal to strike the power feature, the "high dam" if you please, out of the bill.

If you must vote for a man, because of his name, then vote for my opponent, but if you do not want to buy a pig in the poke, vote for the man who has maturity, a proven record of community and area service, an outstanding record of accomplishment during two terms as a member of the Texas Legislature, a man who has demonstrated ability, honesty and sincerity, and is a Christian inside the Church and outside the Church. Sabinetown Philosopher

He Farms Like World Statesmen Prepare For a Summit Meeting

Editor's note: The Sabinetown Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the Sabine river apparently is making excuses for the way he farms, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editar:

Every once in a while somebody asks me why I don't do a better job of farming.

How come you've got more weeds in your crops, they'll ask me. How come you're always late in breaking your land, late in planting, late in plowing, late in gathering, late in starting over again? How come your fences are down, your gates sagging, etc?

Well, now, I'll tell you. When a man spends as much time as I do thinking on the international level, he naturally adapts his farming methods to the international plane, and I consider my farm a perfect example of international diplomacy.

For example, say it's time for me to do some plowing and time for the leaders of the world to hold a summit meeting.

Do we jump right in?

Anybody who knows me or the world knows better. Nobody holds a summit meeting until he knows what's going to be discussed and what the answers are and what conclusions can be reached, just like when I start out on a crop, I don't just climb on the tractor and start, I sit down and figure out how much I think I can make, how much plowing it'll take, what the price may be, what I'll do with the money, etc.

To some people this may sound like over-caution, but that's because they don't think in international terms. In the last 15 or 20 years the world has had eight or ten summit meetings, and if the world is any better off than it was before the leaders met, it's hard to tell, and consequently it doesn't matter how long it takes to get ready to meet at the summit. Rushing into a summit meeting is like me rushing into a farming year. Not going to get anywhere anyway, so me and the world leaders both might as well take our time.

The way I figure it, the world and this farm are both going to be here, whether the statesmen are at the summit or I'm under a shade tree.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

AUSTIN, TEX. — Everyone wants harmony at the State Democratis Convention Sept. 9 in San Antonio.

Gov. Price Daniel, U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, National Committeeman Byron Skelton, and Speaker Sam Rayburn — all say they want harmony.

Even National Committeewoman Mrs. R. D. Randolph, who has tirelessly needled, Governor Daniel and the state committee for two years, more or less joined in by predicting "a spirit of good will" among delegates.

Despite all the expressions of good intent, harmony among Texas Democrats is hard to come by. Like a huge household of relatives and in-laws, the party always has many clashing personalities and viewpoints under one roof. In the past, there've been rump conventions and separate rival delegations to the national convention.

It is the hope of avoiding this in 196 0that lies behind the cementing efforts. Many leaders contend that a unified Texas delegation could have a key role in naming the next presidential nominee.

All the above-mentioned leaders are presently agreed on one issue—support of the party nominees. Point on which they part is whether the governor should have a veto over the state committee members selected by vote of district delegations.

Governor Daniel, following the practice of past governors, bumped some of the district-selected committee members in 1956 and submitted people more in line with his program.

Mrs. Randolph and Senator Yarborough, now joined by Rayburn, insist the governor has not right to do this.

But Governor Daniel has not promised he wouldn't. He said he felt no district should propose a committee member who is "dedicated to the sabotage of . . . duly elected officers of the party." This almost certainly refers to members of the Democrats of Texas (DOT), an ultra-liberal group that has heckled and hindered the governor and other official party leaders at every turn for the past two years.

Delegates from each of the 31 senatorial districts are allowed two state committee members—a man and a woman. It is estimated that perhaps six o fthese districts may be controlled by anti-Daniel forces. Therein lies the possibility fo rdiscord. If any of these districts proposes a DOTer for the state committee, the governor is not likely to "harmonize."

HIGH HOPES—Mr. Wilson went to Washington, his saddlebags full of multi-million-dollar hopes for Texas school children.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson personally delivered the Texas brief in the upcoming U. S. Supreme court case on Texas tidelands. At issue is whether the state or federal government owns submerged lands between the points 3 miles out and 10.5 miles out.

Wilson carried the arguments for Texas ownership in 40-year-old saddlebags that belonged to a heroic Texas Ranger. He declares optimisically that the case is jinxed—in Texas' favor—because the brief is dated Aug. 13, trial is set for Oct. 13, oral arguments will last 13 hours and 13 people worked on the research.

More seriously, he noted that Texas had spent "a big sum of money" marshalling its facts, that a bevy of top-notch legal minds from over the state, nation and two foreign countries had spent some 2,000 hours on the 400-page brief.

"We feel like we have an overwhelming case," he said. "We feel like we wil lwin it."

Exploration indicates that the 7.5-mile band of disputed land is exceptionally rich in oil and gas. If Texas is successful in holding its claim, revenue from these resources would go into the Permanent School Fund.

PLACE IN THE SUN — Texas Republicans have served notice the ywill demand an even break at getting their candidates in the favored position on the general election ballot.

Descired place is the first column on the left. GOP leaders say people automatically begin reading in this column, and some never go any further.

Republicans hope to work things out on the local level with some sort of coin-tossing arrangement. But they say they'll go to court, if necessary.

CITIES WIN OUT — Cities and utility companies won the first round of a court battle to determine who pays the cost of re-locating utilities for new interstate highways.

An Austin district court ruled that the cost can be paid from federal-state highway funds, as provided in a law passed by the last legislature. State Highway Department is challenging the constitutionality of this law.

Ultimate decision will, of course, be made by the Supreme Court. Some estimate the re-location costs could run as hig has $100,000,000.

PAROLE STAFF COMPLETE — Board of Pardons and Paroles has announced the appointment of 10 new parole supervisors, rounding out the 40-man statewide staff.

Adult parole staff was authorized by the last Legislature to allow for release of prisoners who show promise of "going straight." About 3,000 persons are now on parole in Texas, and more are expected to be released as the new supervisors go to work.

Latest appointees to the parole staff are Louis Bramblett of Dallas, Julian Chafin of Sherman, Cecil Smith of Jourdanton, Walter Williford of Houston, Massey Herrera of Corpus Christi, Thomas Casso of El Paso, Herbert Gnepper of Lubbock, Alfredo Garcia of Austin, Terry Cromwell of Fort Worth and Charles Davis of Goldthwaite.

COLLEGE FUND SEEKERS — Members of governing boards of state colleges have formed a committee to urge additional appropriations for the colleges.

Jointly the college directors feel they need about $13,000,000 a year more (mostly for faculty salaries.

Herman Heep, Austin oilman and member of the Texas A&M Board, is chairman of the committee. Said Heep, "It is time we point out that Texas, ranking low among the states in its support of higher education, is getting about what it is paying for."

Home Walls Can Be Put To Practical Use

In well designed modern homes, the walls contain just about everything except old secrets.

They can hold nearly all your storage, thus sparing you the expense of numerous closets. They can provide a good 90 percent of your room decoration. And they can be most helpful in keeping down house maintenance and operating costs.

To get the walls of your new home to do all these things--and then some--the Southern Pine Association offers the following blueprint:

A logical locale for your storage is the partitioning, and here, the advent of the wood trussed rafter gives the planner a new flexibility.

This type of roof component clear spans the house width, requires support only at the side walls, thereby relieving the interior partitions of load-bearing responsibility. Hence, all the partitions can be placed anywhere you wish and fashioned in the form of storage dividers.

Dining and living areas, for instance, can be separated by nothing more than a large attractive cabinet which has a bookcase on one side and shelves for crockery on the other. Or you can have an extra large living area and use light portable screens to seal off various sections as you desire.

The solid walls, of course, are those of the exterior, and like the cabinet and screen deviders, can be integrated with your decorative scheme. The modern trend is to use the natural texture interest of the basic material to do most of the decorating. For example, the light golden hue and pronounced grain pattern of Southern Pine paneling provides its own built-in design, leaving little need for artificial adornment.

When wood paneling is used in this manner on the room-side of the outer house walls, you also take advantage of the natural insulative value of the material. And you have not one wood "buffer" but three, by surfacing the exterior with siding over a layer of sheathing, as good construction requires. This triple-combination is especially desirable for those parts of the house exposed to the afternoon sun. The great natural insulation the wall provides reduces the load on your air conditioning, and makes it work more efficiently at lower cost.

Good quality wood paneling, properly seasoned and carefully installed, is a permanent fixture whose smooth surface and fresh appearance are most economical to maintain. There are any number of striking finishes to choose from, and they are so durable that 10 to 15 years, and even longer will elapse before a refinishing job is required.

The State Senator and McGee Bend Dam

My opponent says that the State Senator can do nothing for the McGee Bend project and he has severely criticized me for discussing the issue during this campaign. There is much your next State Senator can and should do to help complete this project. It is customary for the Governor to follow the recommendations of the State Senator in the appointment of the Directors or Commissioners of the Water Conservation Districts and the River Valley Authorities. It is vital to the success of the McGee Bend project that only Directors or Commissioners of Districts in this area who are sympathetic to the McGee Bend project be appointed, Directors who will work for its completion rather than attempt to kill or delay the project. Furthermore, supplementary state legislation and co-operation may become necessary for the completion of this project. The State will undoubtedly be called on to build, or participate in building, roads, bridges, recreational parks and other facilities around and near the lake. The possibilities of service by an interested State Senator are really unlimited.

My motive in discussing this issue during the campaign is certainly sincere. I am concerned by the failure of this district to keep pace with other sections in industrial growth. As a matter of fact, we have been losing population. I have never tried to pretend that my election would in itself correct this. I have only said that I am genuinely anxious to do everything in my power to expand the economy and improve business in this area. I believe the McGee Bend project will be a big step in this direction and if elected your next State Senator, I will do everything in my power to hasten and facilitate its completion. After all, an expanded economy in this area will benefit all.

There is no room for bitterness or hate in this campaign and I will not engage in it. If we all pull together in harmony and good will, we can and will, solve our difficulties.

Gratefully yours,

MARTIN DIES, JR.
