Market News from Southern Pine

Temple seat sales are down this week.

Don H. Burnley
Asst. General Sales Manager

Temple treat sales were active, and again this week we received more orders than we had been receiving in previous weeks. Competition remains very keen, as a number of other plants are not running full time, on account of their order file.

The hardwood market remains active and prices firm. A great many of the mills have been unable to operate full time due to the heavy rain fall. Should the rains continue ,then there will be an acute shortage of dry hardwood lumber this winter, which of course will cause prices to increase.

Ed Price
Asst. General Sales Manager

"SPIB 77 lumber sales are moving at a nice rate and recent price increases have taken hold effectively. It is our hope that this volume will continue until late November when we can expect sales to slack off."

"SP Supreme Oak Flooring sales are going smoothly and little resistance has developed due to recent price increases which lead us to believe that the current active market will stand further slight increases in the very near future."

R. M. Burns
Asst. General Sales Manager

Pineland School Opens With 350 Registering

Pineland School opened Monday at 8:30 with a General Assembly program. Approximately 350 students registered, with about 25 new pupils transferring from other schools, according to M. M. Miller, superintendent.

"What you put into this school year," Mr. Miller said, "Is what you will get out of it."

Mr. John Lindsey, who has not missed an opening day of school for the past thirty years, welcomed the newcomers to the faculty family and urged students to take advantage of their every opportunity.

After announcements, Rev. Bee Miller of the Church of God said a prayer of dismissal and students returned to their rooms for registration and a full day's work.

Son Of Former Pineland Family Drowns Monday

Gordon Duval Gary, Jr., 5 year old son of Judge and Mrs. Gordon Duval Gary, Sr., 750 23rd St., Beaumont, drowned in Village Creek on Labor Day while on an outing with his family about a half mile downstream from the Flying Red Horse camp.

Lt. C. L. Russell of the Highway Patrol, who was on the scene, told this story:

The child was discovered to be missing at 4:45 p.m. having wandered away from the picnic area. The family searched cars in the area and other surrounding places. His sister remarked she had seen him on some steps near a landing and the search continued on the stream.

A call for help in the search was made over the radio and the Silsbee Volunteer Fire Department, and the Jefferson County Volunteer Rescue Corps answered. Many men from all walks of life also volunteered in the search totaling approximately 300 in all.

The little boy's body was found at 6:05 p.m., in the creek by Danny Duplechane, 18, of Loeb and Larry Ken Elkins, 18, also of Loeb, who were in a party of waders hand in hand across the creek. Members of the Silsbee Fire Department under the direction of Fire Chief John Busby formed this chain.

Farmer Funeral Home of Silsbee, Beaumont Ambulance Service and Jefferson County Rescue Corps also had resusciating equipment. After all efforts had been exhausted, Dr. Sam Copeland of Silsbee pronounced the child dead at 7:02 p.m.

Justice of the Peace J. M Bowman of Loeb held an inquest at the scene and gave a verdict of death from accidental drowning.

Highway Patrol units from Silsbee and Beaumont directed the search and the traffic to and from the search area.

The Gary child is survived by his parents, a sister, Donna Beth Gary.

The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gary and Mr. and Mrs. Otis E. Fullen of Beaumont, are well known in Sabine County. The Garys at one time lived in Pineland; Mr. Gary was principal of the elementary school. The Fullens lived in Bronson.

The petitioners stated they felt there was a need to increase the tax rate to $1.50 per one hundred dollar valuation in order that our Pineland school may compare favorably with similar schools in the area.

Letter to the Star

Falfurrias, Texas
Aug. 16, 1958

Dear Mr. Milner,

Just a line or two to say we have been transferred from Kilgore to Falfurrias.

We sure hated to leave East Texas, but go where Magnolia Oil Co. sends us. Maybe we will be able to go back later on.

I would like for you to mail "The Pineland Star" to us here now and not Kilgore. We look forward to getting the Star. Of course Pineland will always be home to us as we lived there over 20 years and I worked for Temple about 33 years.

This is my address:
314 Blucher St.
Falfurrias, Texas.
Thank you very much.

Oscar Hebert

City Council Clears Way for Issuance Of Sewer, Water and Gas Bonds

The City Council of Pineland in a meeting Tuesday afternoon at 5:10 in the Southern Pine Assembly Room passed an ordinance of authorization for the issuance of $175,000 in revenue bonds, $115,000 of which will be issued at once to build the sewer system.

Resident qualified voters of the city in an election May 3 gave the City Council authority for the issuance of the bonds. For the waterworks system issuance of $64,000 in bonds was proposed; for the gas system $21,000, and for the sewer system $115,000.

A second ordinance was passed by the councilmen setting the minimum rates for gas, water, and sewer as follows: and pertaining to residential rates: Water—$1.50 per month minimum for the first 1500 gallons, 50c per thousand for the next 9000 gallons, 40c per thousand for the next 10,000 gallons used and 25c per thousand over 20,500 gallons.

The above minimum rate voted on for water may be compared with the minimum rate of surrounding towns as listed in the Municipal Water Rates in Texas Bulletin number V458, of June, 1958, published by the League of Texas Municipalities. Hemphill's rate is $2.50 per 2000 gallons; San Augustine's is $2.00 per 2000 gallons; Center charges $3.50 minimum per 1000 gallons. The minimum rates of Pineland will be comparatively lower .

A flat rate of $1.25 per month will be charged in the residential district for sewer costs.

Gas minimums will be $1.00 for the first 500 cubic feet, 52c MCF for the next 3000 cubic feet, 50c MCF for the next 11,500 cubic feet and 45c per thousand cubic feet over 15,000.

The Mayor was authorized, by the vote of the councilmen, none dissenting, to engage Axley and Rode of Lufkin as city auditors.

A final resolution voted upon and passed calls for a meeting November 4, with notices posted accordingly, of a meeting of the city council, with the public invited, for the purpose of thorough discussion and understanding of the proposed Urban Renewal program for the city. The Council will then vote upon a resolution calling an election December 6 at which time the people of the city will vote on whether or not they wish to create an Urban Renewal Agency.

The Urban Renewal Agency, under the federal government ,offers unlimited possibilities for the improvement of towns and cities. The federal government matches every dollar with two dollars. Under this program a complete new school building with government funds is a very real possibility.

Star Gazing

BY CHARLOTTE SMITH

Mrs. Charles Osborn told me she asked her husband last Thursday morning, "Why in the world are you getting up so early?"

"Have you forgotten," Mr. Osborn replied. "This is the day we put the STAR in orbit."

"And it's one time none of us postmen complain about the extra work."

The First Day of School. Mothers happy to get a few youngsters out from underfoot for some peaceful minutes during the day. Mothers with held back tears leaving a first grader at the door of a New World. Students tired of a summers' loafing glad to swing into a routine of classes once more. Teachers ready and anxious to meet the challenge of different problems and different personalities for another year. Teachers approaching a classroom of eager faces with humble prayers for divine assistance during each teaching day.

The First Day of School. And the saddest, saddest faces of all . . . the pre-schoolers left behind—watching playmates, brothers, sisters, (or a mother) going to that magic land he wishes so desperately he too might enter.

Let all citizens who question the proposed raise in tax rates to $1.50, (50c above the old dollar we have had so long) consider what the extra revenue will mean in benefits to our school children. And if each and everyone of us is not willing to make sacrifices for his own children and somebody else's children too, especially in the field of education, we cannot expect nor hope for a better tomorrow.

An improved science department for the white and colored schools, typing courses offered in white and colored schools. The cost of operating a school has risen just the same as the grocery bill has risen. Camparatively more. Study the facts available.

Monday the first PTA meeting of the year gives each parent and each citizen an opportunity to work toward a successful school year. Attend this meeting. It's at 3 p.m. in the auditorium.

Guests present included, beside the honoree and her husband, Mrs. Agnes Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Key, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Ener, Mrs. Jay Boyett, Mrs. Leon Hughes ,and Mrs. Kenneth Bobbit and Johnny.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moulder have returned home after two weeks in the home of their daughter, Mrs. E. V. Hemmingway, in Houston.

Mrs. Doyle Heard is in Port Arthur this week visiting her daughter's family Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Fort and children.

PTA To Have First Meeting Monday At 3 PM

First PTA meeting of the 1958-59 school year will be Monday afternoon at 3 in the High School Auditorium.

Old and new business for the year will be the main topic of discussion. Mr. M. M. Miller, superintendent, will make preliminary statements concerning administrative plans for the coming year.

"I would like to urge every parent to attend every PTA meeting this year," Mrs. G. W. Russell, Jr., new president stated. "Not only would we like to achieve our membership goal; we feel that the success of our PTA for the coming year depends on the cooperation of each of us working together for our school and our children."

Sabinetown Philosopher

Finds Summer Has Gone, But He Isn't Wondering What Happened To It

Editor's note: The Sabinetown Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the Sabine river has found out what time of year it is, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editar:

I noticed by my calendar which a puff of wind coming through the window flipped over from July which I hadn't gotten around to tearing off yet, along with August—why tear off calendar sheets twelve times a year when three or four will do just as well—that here it is September and summer is over.

Now this suits me all right, I don't sit around one day waiting for another or one season waiting for the next, as far as I'm concerned one time is as good as another to sit around in, but a friend of mine was sighing and complaining over the fact and saying it seemed like he hadn't accomplished a thing in the past three months, the summer just rushed by without a thing being done.

I don't take such an attitude, I accomplished as much this summer as I set out to do.

People have an odd notion about what they're supposed to do. You take Secretary Dulles. He's traveled all over the world this summer, worked night and day on the problems of the world, gone to bed late and gotten up early, but I can't tell from reading the newspapers that the world is any safer now than it was in the spring. This isn't to say he shouldn't have done what he did, it's just to say that there are two ways of handling a summer, one is to rush through it, the other is to let it do the rushing. I've always contended you get the same pleasure sitting in a stream and letting the water rush by you as you do thrashing around the water, and it's a lot less energetic.

The difference between me and a lot of people is that they try to accomplish what they set out to do, whereas I set out to do only what I accomplish. And the end of the summer comes to both of us, regardless.

As far as I'm concerned, it was a pretty good summer, and anybody who's waiting for the world to settle down before he starts enjoying the seasons might as well throw his calendar away entirely.

As for the fall, I'm looking forward to that too. I know fall is supposed to be the time when a man renews his efforts, when his energy surges forward, but with me, and and a lot of people I think, it's only a time of renewing thoughts about work, not doing anything about it. I intend to work the farm all right, but I don't intend to let it work me.

Your faithfully,
J. A.

Bread 'n Butter

BY LATANE' TEMPLE

Riding to work this morning I could smell the paper mill at Herty. This odor is not in the least unpleasant to me, for it is associated now with pleasant surroundings and is part of our forest environment hereabouts.

Then too, it is sort of like the perfume in "Lil Abner" which is especially designed for use by men to attract girls. Its secret is that it smells like money.

The smell of the paper mill is the smell of wealth in East Texas which did not use to be here. The mill takes forest thinnings and tree tops and converts them into wealth which goes into payrolls, dividends and plant expansion to further utilize our great forestry resource.

The paper mill produces one more good thing from our forests in East Texas.

Saturday afternoon I went to see the new bank in Lufkin and I must say that it is truly beautiful. No expense has been spared to make every detail carry through its rich concept.

A decorative fountain of original design is in the center of the big rotunda, and the decorations are nearly all original Chinese antiques.

Quoting from the attractive brochure which was handed out, "Stone and marble from all over the world have been used to give an appearance of light airiness throughout the building. Marble Falls Granite and Kasota Stone from Minnesota on the exterior. White Georgia Marble and Italian Botticino Marble for the interior, with Terraza flooring."

As one observer said, it is truly a magnificent monument to its builders.

Here in the heart of the finest forest products industry in the world, where our forests create the wealth that makes banks necessary, there might have been more mention of what wood was used in the new structure. Walnut paneling softens the effect behind the tellers' cages and an oak veneer paneling makes the directors' room comfortable and friendly.

If I had been the designer, I might have used more wood because of its superior structural and decorative qualities and made a great to do over it, but everyone knows that I'm a nut on that subject.

Nearly every summer I take my family for two or three days down to Galveston. It has become a special event for our kids. They watch for the old landmarks and enjoy going across on the ferry.

What I most enjoy each year after I have been down there is thinking about the old houses. These old houses are nearly every one built of wood and all the wood is southern pine, of course.

The first of these houses were built during the earliest days of Texas and come right on up to the present, although the present vogue which turns its back on the virtue of wood in many of its uses is just as bad in Galveston now as it is in other places.

The southern pine houses in Galveston illustrate many happy truths about the product which puts bread and butter on our tables. First of all they prove the adaptability of wood to all designs and uses. The houses go from the early "Greek Revival" prior, through the excessive jigsaw decorations of the 1890's right up to the low silhouettes in fashion today.

Wood, of all materials, can best express the imagination of a builder. Whenever wood loses out, it is not because the material itself is lacking in any quality, but because creativeness has not been applied to it in house design.

Nothing expresses the pleasant leisurely living of this old resort city like its gracious wooden houses, large and small.

These wooden houses express also wise awareness of the occasional hazard of living on this island where some of the most fierce storms in our history have struck. Wooden houses standing square and true through the years after the worst that these storms could do are sturdy evidence of one of southern pine's unsung merits: its superior strength.

Properly built wooden houses withstand the worst that the elements can do better than other types.

Frank Carpenter Expresses Thanks

The political season in Texas is now over for another two year period and, for anyone who has spent the past three or four months on the campaign trail, the idea of getting back to normal is most appealing. So it is with me.

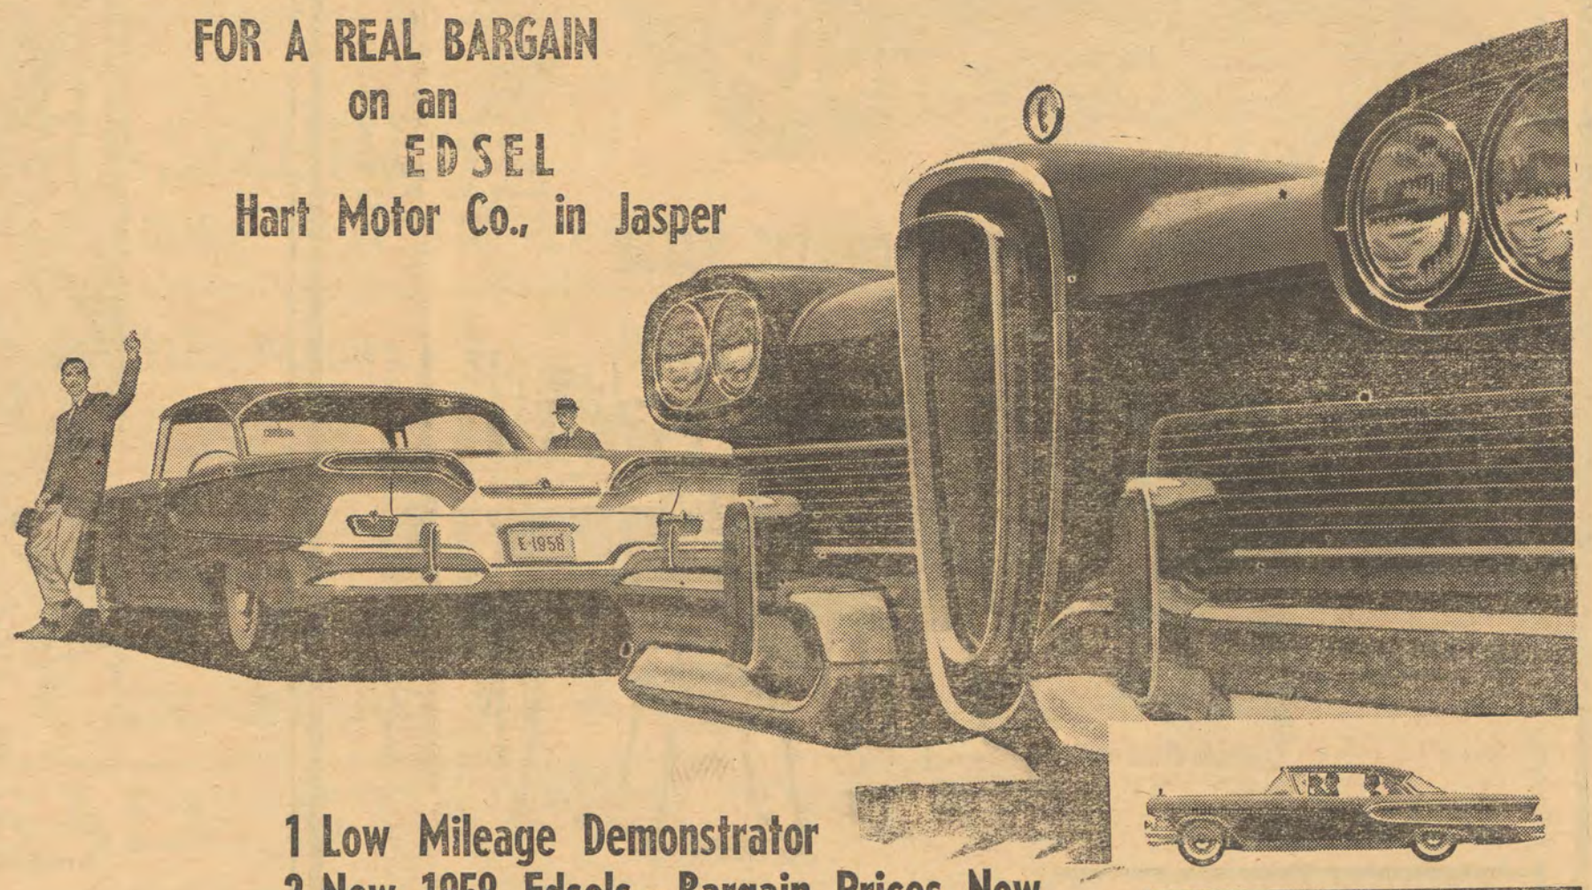

It was a wonderful experience for me to meet and visit with East Texans throughout the nine counties of the Third Senatorial District. For one who was relatively unknown in most of the district when the race began, who was under the handicap of living in a small town in the light voting end of a large district, and who had the further disadvantage of much less political publicity and experience, I am more than gratified at the respectable showing made. While I did not win the office I did gain much more than that in the cordial reception the people gave me, the friendships made, and the renewal of my interest in and concern for all parts of the district.

I want to express my special thanks to all of the good people in Sabine County who supported me in my race for State Senator in the face of the odds against me. It was a wonderful expression of your confidence in me ,and I can assure you your confidence was not misplaced. To those of you in this area who did not support me, I want to say that I regret not being able to convince you of my sincerity of purpose, my ability to be helpful in working out your problems and the problems of the State, and my fairness to all. I am not a politician and I am a poor salesman, otherwise I might have done better. I appreciate the consideration shown me and the opportunity to meet and visit with all of you. There was not an unpleasant incident in the entire campaign with any of you, and I thoroughly enjoyed the personal contacts made. My thanks to all of you for everything.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Carpenter
