Star Gazing

BY CHARLOTTE SMITH

Cap King of Bronson recently received a letter from Pete Cawthon of Lexington, Virginia. "Cap," the letter read in part, "I've been thinking a lot lately about you and Bronson and my boyhood days there.

"Believe it wa sabout 1909 and '10 when Papa took us to Bronson from Houston, and what joy we had living in the piney woods.

"I recall that Judge Padgett had the first electric light we ever saw. There had been none in Houston before we left. The Judge made a speech from his front porch, remember that? I bet you do . . . "

I asked Cap King if he did remember the speech, and he said yes. That a crowd of people would gather around the Judge's front porch. The Judge would then solemnly begin, "The Lord said let there be light, and there was light . . . " Whereupon he dramatically switched the light on. Evidently the speech preceded all demonstrations of the new fangled light.

A committee composed of Earl Culbertson, Bill Bertrand, and Jack Sweeny, appointed as representatives of the Service Club, last month compiled statistics comparing our local school taxes with other districts in the area. Compared with our $1.00 per one hundred dollar evaluation, Diboll has $1.80; Jasper, $1.50; Lufkin, $1.65, Nacogdoches $1.50; Brookeland, $1.50; Newton, $1.50.

Our boys and girls should have the same chance the boys and girls in these other towns have. It is up to us to give it to them September 20, when the local tax election is held.

First grader Keith Swearingen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Swearingen announced to his classmates at the close of the first day, "I won't be with you tomorrow." It seems Keith's preconceived idea of what school involved and an actual day of school did not coincide. Now that he is an experienced pupil of one week and some days, he likes the set-up much better.

There was quite a lengthy discussion at the PTA meeting Monday as to whether the regular monthly meetings should be held at night rather than in the afternoon as is the custom. It was finally voted that the next meeting would be at night, 7 o'clock, on the first Monday in October. If enough members respond, then the meetings will be at night the rest of this year.

Sunday Mass

Mass will be offered Sunday morning at 8:00 a.m. at St. Pius Church in Hemphill by Rev. E. F. McKenna, La Sallette Missionary priest.

Gospel read for all Masses, will be that for the Sixteenth Sunday after Pentecost, taken from the Gospel of St. Luke, Chapter 14, verses 1-11. The Epistle is from Ephesians, Chapter 3, verses 13-21.

Mrs. Bill Williams has resigned as clerk at Ener's Store, a position she had held for 11 years. Mrs. Bernis Graham has taken her place.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Woodell and children made a business trip to Many, Louisiana Saturday.

Market News from Southern Pine

Temple seats for this week week have been slow.

Don H. Burnley
Asst. General Sales Manager

Temple treat sales were slower the week of September 1st, than they were the two preceding weeks. We did receive some orders and have a good backlog.

Hardwood continues to move in volume and prices are firm.

Ed Price
Asst. General Sales Manager

"The sale of SPIB 77 lumber products continues briskly through the month of September. Recent price increases are fairly firm and we see no reason why this rate of sales should decline any during the month of October."

"The sale of SP Supreme Oak Flooring is slightly slower this week than it has been in past weeks, but that does not indicate a weakness in the present market. The volume should continue satisfactorily."

Bob Burns
Asst. General Sales Manager

County-Wide Rat Control Program To Begin Here September 22 To 25

By O. W. THOMPSON
County Agent

Another rat control campaign for Sabine County is under way sponsored by the Rodent Control Service, the Texas A&M College Extension Service and the 4-H clubs of Sabine County.

Sabine County farmers, broiler growers and city residents with rat problems are urged to leave their orders for rat bait with any of the following stores who are cooperating in the program by acting as order and distribution stations:

Hemphill: Halbert's Feed Store, Hammock's Feed Mill, Max Owens' Feed and Poultry, C. C. Rice, Sturrock's Feed and Supply; Milam: Paul Vickers. Isla: Don Gellatly. Sexton: Ross Vickers.

Geneva: Bill Low; Rosevine: W. C. Boyd; Bronson: Mcarida's Grocery and Market; Pineland: Hayes Super Market. Brookeland: Letney's Grocery.

The anti-coagulant bait is furnished by the Rodent Control Service at cost—25c per pound. Everyone in the county troubled with rats is urged to cooperate in the program and order bait. The more premises that are baited simultaneously, the more effective the control program will be.

The average farm will need about four pounds of bait for effective control. Each person's bait is to be picked up where he places his order.

Orders should be placed by September 15 and the bait will be at the above stores September 22-25.

Hugh N. Wood Buys Building

Mr. Hugh N. Wood, owner of Hugh N. Wood Gas and Appliance Company with offices in Bronson, Hemphill and Jasper has purchased from Herman Runnels, the cafe and filling station near the Wood home on Highway 96.

PTA Meets Monday

A budget of $1200 for the current year was voted upon and approved at the first meeting of the Pineland P.T.A. Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

A treasurer, Mrs. Bill Nichols, was elected to replace Mrs. Harold Roberts who has moved. Mrs. M. M. Miller, finance chairman, made a report on money earned by the Committee during the summer at the White Elephant Sale the Ball Game and the booth at Pineland on Parade —a total of $17.49.

The second and fifth grades tied for the Room Count, with nine mothers present for each grade. A $1.00 is presented each PTA meeting to the room having the largest number of parents present.

Program chairman, Mrs. Charles Nicks, reported on the PTA yearbooks and suggested that the books this year be stencilled by the committee rather than printed due to the prohibitive cost and the fact that so few PTA members actually attend the meetings to accept their books.

Plans were made for the Halloween Carnival, to be held this year Friday, October 31, Halloween night. Room mothers were urged to contact Mrs. M. M. Miller and choose the booths they want to operate. It was voted that two queens will be run in the queen's race this year. Grades 1 through 6 will compete for a grammar school queen. Grades 7 through 12 will compete for high school queen.

Mrs. A. J. Jackson, membership chairman, reported the beginning, next Monday, of a membership drive. Competition in the grades will result in a $5.00 prize presented the room with the largest percentage of memberships secured.

Mr. M. M. Miller, speaker for the meeting, chose as his topic "Stepping Stones to Maturity." Mr. Miller also reported on the findings of the Service Club committee's survey of local taxes in our neighboring schools.

It was voted that the next P.T.A. meeting will be the first Monday in October at 7:00 in the evening.

Bread 'n Butter

BY LATANE' TEMPLE

All of us who have or who have had a part in producing good southern pine lumber have a right to be very proud. Ours is the oldest industry in this country, 350 years old this year, and our constantly improving product has built most of the homes and other structures up to this time.

Until a few years ago the southern pine region furnished just about all the lumber except what was produced locally in some fairly small regions.

In what we in the south consider modern times, the great forests in the northwest have been opened up and during the last war this lumber, which is largely produced green, moved into the markets which had been served by southern pine.

Because of a difference in ideas about standards and because of the severe competition, a rivalry between these regions which approaches bitterness has existed. When people in our region lose what they have spent a lifetime trying to build up because their markets are taken by lumber which is not preshrunk nor as strong as southern pine, it is understandable that there should be some bitterness.

However, the new National Promotion For Wood will go a long way toward providing a meeting place for the various species to overcome their differences.

The southern pine region in general and the Texas yellow pine region in particular can look at the future with more assurance, in my opinion, than any other in the nation, provided we can hold our markets in competition with other products.

Because of the vision of the people who came before us, we can depend upon a constantly growing and improving supply of timber. We are growing something like 50% more than we are harvesting each year. This compares with the south as a whole which is growing about 22% more than it is harvesting and the nation as a whole which is growing about 2% more than it is harvesting. This would seem to indicate that our timber bank account is growing faster than anyone else's.

Supported by this assured supply of raw material, plants throughout East Texas and the South are scrambling to make their plants modern and efficient like the great mill in Diboll and its sister in Pineland.

The southern pine industry in general and the Texas yellow pine industry in particular are aware that the good timber practice put into effect years ago have now proved themselves. There has been great headway in making the lumber plants reflect the permanence of the industry and we are now beginning to put our resources and energies behind modern marketing and advertising.

The Texas yellow pine industry has led the way in this respect also. Four great mills here in East Texas, all within the circulation of The Free Press, embarked a few years ago on an advertising program here in Texas designed to educate Texans on the fundamentals of lumber. The strength of southern pine, its superior nail holding power and other qualities which will grow out of the superior nature of southern pine itself plus good seasoning and good manufacture have been the subject of these ads.

It is not surprising that the public has responded enthusiastically to these truths.

Even though we have a long long way to go, the effects of our first efforts are being felt. The substantial worth of an industry which is increasing its supply of raw material when other regions are depleting theirs, which is improving its manufacture and which is educating the public, is beginning to be felt.

The September 1958 issue of The Lumberman, leading trade journal directed to lumber manufacturers over the country and published on the West Coast, has a lead article and editorial reviewing the strength of the southern pine industry.

The article is entitled, "Will The South Take The Lead?"

We here in East Texas can answer that. We say it will.

Jones-Gattis

Of interest to Pinelanders is the marriage of Vivian Luella Jones daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell T. Jones, of Lake Arthur, Louisiana, formerly of Pineland, to Jerry Gattis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Seibert of Reno, Nevada, at the First Baptist Church of Lake Arthur on Saturday, at 2:30 p.m.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace over white taffeta with a shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a Bible topped with a white orchid.

Rev. J. E. Howell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Lake Arthur read the marriage ceremony. Mrs. C. A. Reid of Lake Arthur, accompanied Miss Martha Ann Young who sang "Because."

The altar was decorated with white gladioli and chrysanthemums imbedded in richly colored greenery. White candles accented the flowers.

Junior bridesmaid was Janet Jones, sister of the bride who wore a blue crystaline dress with white accessories and a white carnation waist corsage.

Flower girl, Eileen Jones, a sister of the bride, wore a blue crystaline dress with a head band of white carnations.

Best man was Kirk Bagwell of Lake Charles Air Base. Ushers and groomsmen were Frankie and Ronald Lilley of Lake Arthur.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the reception room of the Church. Pink and white carnations surrounded a white mesh bell and small white bells surrounded the center piece. A white lace cloth over pink covered the table.

Presiding at the guest book was Marauaritte Trahan of Lake Arthur. Bonnie Carter of Pineland presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Edgar D. Stein served the cake.

The bride, a niece of Mrs. Harry Morris, graduated from McNeese State College in Lake Charles, and is a member of Theta Sigma Rho sorority. She is employed by the Gulf National Bank of Lake Charles. The groom is an A 2/c of the U. S. Air Force and is stationed at Lake Charles Air Base.

Soil Bank Open For Eligible Land

Any farmer who has cropland which is regularly used for cultivated crops or tame hay is eligible to participate in the 1959 Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank, Chairman Perry L. McGown of the Sabine County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced.

Using Conservation Reserve regulations, the Chairman defined "eligible" and "ineligible" land for the program as follows:

Eligible land includes: (1) Any land from which a crop was harvested or which was in regular crop rotation in 1958, and (2) land from which tame hay was harvested for hay or silage in either 1957 or 1958. Tame hay is defined as "a stand of perennial grasses or legumes normally established for hay by land preparation and seeding."

Non-eligible land includes: (1) That planted to small fruits, vineyards, nursery stock, orchard or nut trees, and land between rows of these crops; (2) any land owned by the Federal Governmnt; and (3) land in non-crop open pasture, range, woods or in the farmstead.

In Sabine County, Chairman Perry L. McGown said, the smallest amount of land that can be put in the Conservation Reserve is five acres. If the entire acreage to be put in the program is to be planted to forest trees, however, as little as two acres may be planted.

HERE'S HOW TO APPLY FOR THE PROGRAM

The Conservation Reserve is a voluntary program. Every farmer makes his own decision on participating.

The first thing to do is visit your County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Office.

To save time, take along information about the acreage and yield of crops on your farm for the past two years.

Talk over the situation with ASC Committee. Ask to have maximum Conservation Reserve payment rates established for your farm. The deadline for farmers to request that rates be established for their farms is September 26, 1958.

Sabinetown Philosopher

Tries To Think Of His World-Wide Responsibilities; But Fails

Editor's note: The Sabinetown Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sabine river tries some international thinking this week, but not very successfully.

Dear editar:

I have no idea how it got here, it's hard to explain, like how some men got to Congress or how some women got married, but yesterday morning I was out here on my farm walking around not doing anything when I found a copy of a newspaper caught on a fence post and when I worked my way over to it and opened it up I discovered it was a copy of the London Daily Telegraph.

How a London paper got out here on this Johnson grass farm is beyond me, could have fallen out of an airplane or been dropped out of a car by some tourist, but if you think too hard on some things you get no where, most newspapers aren't made to think about, just to read, so I opened it up and read it, and what appealed to me was an editorial on the United States.

According to it, "the internal stability of the United States is of paramount concern to her allies," and the paper went on to say that "the American people are not yet accustomed to thinking in terms of their world responsibilities." It argued we ought to.

Now I can go along with this British paper's concern with our internal stability, in a financial sort of way, but when it comes to our thinking in terms of world responsibility, I don't see how we can swing it.

That is, after a man gets through thinking about his immediate responsibilities, then his city and county responsibilities, then his state and federal responsibilities, he hasn't got over ten or fifteen minutes left for the rest of the world. I know when I get to thinking for example about whether I ought to grow more of this or less of that, I ought to be thinking in terms of world responsibility, but actually what I'm thinking about is which one of em can I make the most money out of and how much will that lack in meeting my family responsibilities.

In fact, I could give more attention to my world responsibilities, and would be glad to, if I could bring my family around to taking the same viewpoint. But the trouble with this country is that most families think they come first, whereas any world thinker knows English families ought to come first, or Egyptian families, or Indian families or any other kind. I recognize we've got responsibilities to other parts of the world, but just for once I'd like to find somebody in the other parts who figures he's got some responsibilities toward me.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.
