Star Gazing

BY CHARLOTTE SMITH

Among some old college papers I ran across Saturday I found a paper entitled "On Epitaphs: An Informal Essay."

According to this essay, epitaphs began with the Egyptians who used them to commemorate their dead. The Greeks wrote learnedly, used long epitaphs of literary interest, the Romans brief monumental facts beginning with Sta Viator! ("Stop, Traveler!")

With the Christians, I said, the custom of epitaphs continued usually with pious hopes expressed therein.

From examples scattered here and there, informally, I quote:

"Beneath this silent stone is laid,
A noisy antiquated maid,
Who from her cradle talked to death,
And ne'er before was out of breath."

Maybe you can select your own from these:

"Improve in time while time doth last,
For all time is no time when time hath past."

"Life is a city full of crooked streets,
And death's the market place where people meet,
If life were merchandise that folks could buy,
The rich would live, but the poor would die."

"Beneath this stone prepared for Zion,
Is laid the landlord of the Lion
Resigned unto the Almighty will,
His son keeps on his business still."

Seems some of the advertising in those days was done by the tombstone medium. And this one:

"This tomb was executed by his bereaved widow, who still carries on his business at No. 10 Roue St. Martin."

"Here lies the cobbler, John Wether,
Whose sole death has ripte from his upper shoe leather."

The epitaph I chose for my own tombstone ended the essay. And tonight, more years later than I should publicly admit, it's still a nice epitaph for me or for anybody.

"Out of the strain of the doing
Into the peace of the done;
Out of the thirst of pursuing
Into the rapture of won:
Out of the grey mist into brightness
Out of pale dusk into dawn;
Out of all wrongs into rightness
I from these fields have gone."

Total of 4.47 Inches Rainfall In Past Week

A total of 4.47 inches of rainfall for the period Sept. 15 to 22 was registered at the U. S. Weather gauge in Bronson, according to B. E. Marshburn, who is in charge

September is usually the driest month in the year in Sabine County, averaging about 2 inches of rainfall. The rain has been very beneficial to crops here and has relieved the minds of the U. S. Forest rangers since September is one of the worst months of the year for forest fires.

"SMOKEY THE BEAR" (Albert Jones in reality) is pictured above as he will appear in the several schools over the county in his fire prevention campaign. The district forest ranger requests that mothers do not frighten their children with the admonition of "That bear will get you," but, rather acquaint them with the fact that Smokey is trying to help preserve the timberlands for their benefit.

Market News from Southern Pine

"SPIB 77 lumber sales were slightly less this week than earlier weeks in September, probably due to the rather inclement weather. We have just published a new price list which should enable us to get the top of the market for our product."

"SP Supreme Oak Flooring sales were satisfactory and at the present time we are marking time on our number 2 and number 1 Common sales until we have an opportunity to catch up with a few orders on which we are behind schedule."

"The sale of treated posts, poles, piling and lumber continues at about the same rate it has during the first weeks of September which were fairly active. These sales should continue at a nice rate as we are moving into the fall line construction season."

Moore Plantation To Hold Deer Hunt Dec. 17-21

Charles E. Boyd, wildlife biologist of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, released the following information to the PINELAND STAR this week, regarding proposed controlled hunts in a 12-county area.

According to Boyd, controlled hunts are planned on several wildlife management areas in the East Texas piney woods.

Five-day deer hunts are scheduled for the Lake Tejas area of Tyler County; the Shawnee Creek area of Angelina County and Moore area here in Sabine County.

The biologist emphasized that, the proposed 7-day controlled squirrel hunts in the foregoing areas, would not be held. Problems arising over which control would be an almost insurmountable obstacle, has caused the proposition to be cancelled.

The proposed controlled deer hunt has been scheduled for the Moore area Dec. 17-21, both dates inclusive and will be for BUCK DEER ONLY, it was stated.

Deadline for filing of applications has been established as Oct. 31, according to information released to the press.

An informative release will appear in next week's issue of the PINELAND STAR for the guidance of interested persons as to who may apply for controlled deer hunt permits, when and where to make application and other regulations from the state Game and Fish Commission.

Corn Growers Of County Asked To Meet To Discuss Future Outlook

By O. W. THOMPSON

MEETING FOR CORN GROWERS IN HEMPHILL MONDAY NIGHT

Sabine County corn growers are invited and urged to attend a meeting in the district courtroom in Hemphill, Monday night, September 29, at 7 o'clock.

Results of the corn variety tests conducted by the county agent, in cooperation with the Texas A&M College Experiment Station, on Sabine County farms will be presented at the meeting. Corn production practices to get maximum production and marketing of corn will be discussed, according to County Agent O. W. Thompson.

Thompson pointed out that Sabine County's own broiler industry offers a market for several times as much corn as is now produced in the county.

The nearly 6 million broilers that will be produced in the county in 1958, will consume approximately 43,000 tons of feed of which approximately 60% or more than 25,000 tons, will be grain. This 25,000 tons of grain fed to Sabine County broilers is the equivalent of approximately 900,000 bushels of corn—all of which is being shipped in to the county—and much of which could be furnished by Sabine County farmers.

Another fact in connection with the broiler industry and corn production is that the manure from 1000 broilers applied to one acre of land, can return to the soil more fertilizer elements than are removed by a 100-bushel corn crop. In other words, there will be enough manure produced by the broilers grown in the county this year to furnish the fertilizer elements necessary to produce 600,000 bushels of corn or approximately two-thirds of the grain fed to all the broilers produced in the county in 1958.

According to Mr. Chandler the car was a 48 or 50 model black Chevrolet. Mr. Chandler was not hurt. Highway patrolman George Clark was the investigating officer.

Bread 'n Butter

BY LATANE' TEMPLE

As Bread 'n Butter is being written this week, I am planning to leave for Houston for a meeting with members of three other large East Texas lumber manufacturing companies to project for the year ahead our big educational program on quality southern pine which we beam to Texans.

This program is generally spoken of as the SPIB Program, because that is what we advertise primarily. The Justice Department is very strict on what we can promote to the public, because the laws are careful about competitors working together on anything. We all actually believe that our standards far exceed those of the Southern Pine Inspection Bureau, even though SPIB sets standards that are higher than any other species of lumber has.

SPIB lays down minimum standards of dryness, strength characteristics, straightness and appearance. Manufacturers like the four who are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to educate Texans on our native product, are recognized to produce a better product than other manufacturers within the same grade limits.

The response to this educational program in Texas has been even better than any of us expected. We had an almost blank sheet to write on as far as what the public knew about lumber. I have had a cafe operator in an out-of-the-way place in West Texas see the symbol on the car I was riding in and start telling me about the house he was going to build. He wanted to know where he could get good dry SPIB lumber.

Although we have a long way to go as far as education is concerned, we feel now that we must start talking about the less apparent satisfactions that wife or mother or a bread winner have out of using the best of building materials. This will be less easy. We will also start playing up the SPA initials as well as SPIB. SPA stands for Southern Pine Association. All of its members subscribe to SPIB, but all SPIB subscribers are not members of Southern Pine Association. This distinction of SPA is that its members, generally speaking, represent the conscience of the southern pine industry and are supporting advertising and educational programs in addition to fighting for our species in housing specifications, railroad tariffs, forestry and elsewhere.

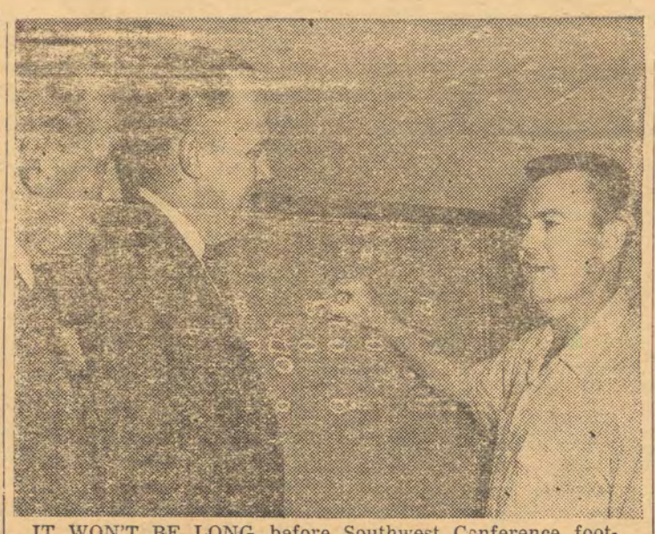

Al of these activities, of course, are designed to tell the world about the superior product that we here in the southern pine region of East Texas produce and to get the reward for its superiority which the product deserves.

I wonder how many ladies in Diboll remember the old patented "fireless cooker." I remember one my grandmother had when I was a child. It was supposed to have special virtue because it gave up so much heat over such a long period of time without getting so hot that it would burn what you were cooking. The principal of the fireless cooker was that you heated up a stone and put it in an insulated container with whatever you wanted to cook. The stone, about the size of a two-inch stack of phonograph records, would give up enough heat over a period of several hours to cook a roast.

One of the houses that I lived in until it was sold a couple of years ago had brick siding on it. This brick would accumulate heat on the south and west walls all day long and transmit it into the house all through the night. About the hottest time of the "day" was at 11:00 at night. I would go out and hose down the west wall trying to get it cool.

We in my family are among the people who are lucky enough to have air conditioning in our homes. Naturally the air conditioning unit was working its head off a long time after the whistle should have blown for it and my bills during the five hot months were crippling.

Now that I am back in a wooden house again these problems have disappeared.

IT WON'T BE LONG before Southwest Conference football broadcasts will fill the air in Texas for the 25th year. Here two of Humble's top announcers, Kern Tips (left) and Alec Chesser, are being brought up-to-date on formations and plays by the University of Texas' Head Coach, Darrell Royal.

DEEP WITHIN a mountain in southwestern Missouri, freight cars await unloading of civil defense equipment to be stockpiled there for use in case of enemy attack. The siding, extending 600 feet into the mountain, can accommodate 16 railroad cars simultaneously. The Office of Defense and Civilian Mobilization facility, part of a limestone mine, contains a vast array of medical supplies and "hardware" to be used in recovery operations in the event of an attack on the United States.
