DEDICATED TO THE PROGRESS OF PINELAND AND SURROUNDING COMMUNITIES

VOLUME 1—NUMBER 25 | THE PINELAND STAR, PINELAND, TEXAS, THURSDAY, OCT. 9, 1958 | $2.00 PER YEAR

Market News from Southern Pine

Temple seat sales during the past week were at a rate slightly over current production.

This reflects the good volume which Temple seats have enjoyed during the current year. This good volume has been the result of the vastly improved quality and packaging of Temple seats along with the more aggressive selling policy which was adopted about a year ago. However, the price of seats in what may be the most competitive market of its kind has continued to decline so that many of the advantages of plant efficiency and product quality have been lost. It is presently hoped that the anticipated increase in Residential Building during next year will give a better tone to the seat market with somewhat higher prices.

Don H. Burnley

Temple treat sales for the week of September 29th were somewhat slower than we like. We did receive a number of orders for items on hand. The treating division has a good back log of orders and due to the condition of the wood we are not anxious to take orders for items that are not on hand. Generally speaking orders for pressure treated Southern Yellow Pine poles, piling and timbers have improved. While prices have been low on some items, they leveled off and we anticipate a price increase within the next thirty days.

Hardwood lumber sales were off this past week, the reason being that we had practically no dry lumber to offer the trade. Prices for Hardwood lumber continue firm and are rising slowly.

Ed Price

September was an excellent month for the sale of SPIB 77 lumber products. The first few days in October have not indicated the same activity but we do expect that a normal rate of sales will develop promptly after the final game of the World Series. Most of our customers and salesmen are rabid baseball fans at World Series time and we always develop a lag in sales during that period. Generally, the month of October should be a good month as it is the last real construction month of the year with winter season approaching.

The sale of SP Supreme Oak Flooring continues slowly as we are selling from surplus items only in most instances. As we begin to dwindle our order file on oversold items, we will begin to increase the rate of sales. Prices continue firm and slight increases will be put into effect on No. 1 Common items.

Star Gazing

BY CHARLOTTE SMITH

This is the 25th issue of the STAR. Every issue has had a Star Cook recipe. Lately, it seems every recipe has had a mistake.

This has puzzled me a little. Did any of the first recipes have mistakes and nobody read the column to discover them?

I shun discouragement. The Star Cook recipes have been excellent ones. By excellent cooks. And while it might be safe at the present to read two issues of the STAR before trying any one recipe, I hope you wil continue sending me favorite recipes you'd like your neighbors to share.

George Fuerman wrote this in his "Post Card" column in the Houston Post last week. Bettie and Fred S. Kielman, Jr. and their 9 year old son, Sammie, driving back from a New Orleans vacation, saw a hugh sign near Baton Rouge: "If You Died Tonight Do You Know Where Your Soul Would Go?"

Sammie mulled this over for awhile, then asked a question; "It would go to Texas, wouldn't it?"

The following is a reprint. I got it from the Jasper News-Boy Editorial column by Bob Sanders. He got it from the Dodge, Nebraska Criterion.

A man said to me "I wish you hadn't printed that picture of my daughter. It was a poor one and didn't look like her at all." I said, "I'm sorry."

It wasn't long after that a man complained to me that I was showing favoritism when I failed to print a picture that he was interested in, yet had printed a similar one of a different group later. I said, "I'm sorry."

Another fellow some time later asked, "How come you passed up the story on that particular farming activity?" I said, "I'm sorry."

And then there's the time the irate young matron called on the phone and in no uncertain tones said that we had mis-spelled the name of her new baby. I said, "I'm sorry."

Another member of the gentler sex called the Criterion one time and informed me that we had omitted a name from her party guest list and that she wanted to cancel her subscription. I said, "I'm sorry." Then I checked the list and found she was a long time in arrears.

Still another called one day last winter and indicated that we had intentionally failed to print the story of his vacation trip. I said "I didn't know about it. I'm sorry."

Then there was the fellow who informed me that they didn't want the story of their vacation trip printed in the paper "Because somebody might steal our chickens while we're gone and beside it's nobody's business where we go" I said, "I'm sorry."

And still another told me once that he thought we used "too much of those little social items. They don't amount to anything and nobody reads them." I said, "I'm sorry."

Then one day, while in our shop to renew his subscription, a man said to me:

"We sure like your newspaper. It's so full of news and good pictures, has so many fine departments, so clean and so well printed. No wonder you have such a large circulation."

By golly, I couldn't think of a thing to say.

The Senior Class had a very successful dinner at the Community Hall last week, and they are grateful to everyone who helped make it so, especially Mrs. Ira Brown.

Fish Hatcheries Production Drops From '57 Record

Requests for restocking ponds and lakes from state fish hatcheries this year have been about one-half that of 1957, according to the director of inland fisheries of the Game and Fish Commission at Austin.

Demand was heavy in 1957 due to rains increasing volumes of reservoir water after the drouth. A rise in fish carrying capacities, therefore, brought about a state-wide fish restocking program, the director said.

Hatcheries produced and distributed 14,852,999 fish in 1957. Of these, 9,310,133—or about 63 per cent—were placed in public waters such as city reservoirs or state dam projects. The rest went for stocking private farm ponds and lakes over the state.

Black bass was the most popular species with 9,607,363 being distributed. Next in line was channel catfish with 2,030,665. The remainder was made up of crappie and sunfish.

Some South Texas hatcheries have finished distribution at this time, while others are beginning their fall schedules, the director said.

Anyone may get fish for stocking free of charge if present pond supplies are depleted from drouth, drainage, or treatment. Application should be made by postal card to the Game and Fish Commission, Walton Building, Austin, Tex.

STAR COOKS

BOILED MINCE MEAT CAKE

By Mrs. Arvie Bell of Plainview (Mrs. Bell states "This is my favorite recipe. My neighbors always ask me to make this cake for Coffee Club.")

- 2 cups sugar or 1 cup syrup (white or can)
- 1 cup lard (melted) or ½ cup Wesson Oil
- 2 cups hot water
- 2 cups mince meat in jar or box
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons nutmeg
- 2 teaspoons allspice
- 1½ teaspoon cloves
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups flour

Boil mince meat fifteen (15) minutes until done in a little water. Then add hot water, sugar and lard. If you use canned mince meat, don't boil; just add sugar, lard, water, and mince meat together. Mix all the spices, flour, soda, baking powder, salt, and sift all together three times. Pour into pans lined with wax paper, and bake in slow oven about one hour until done. Put a little water in bottom of pan. Makes 2 large loaf cakes. Use any kind of icing you like best. I don't use any.

(The German Chocolate Cake without the amount of sugar listed should have read 2 cups sugar, and Mrs. Shaw's Chocolate pound cake should have 4 tablespoons of Cocoa rather than 4 teaspoons)

Journalists Creed

I believe in the profession of journalism.

I believe that the public journal is a public trust; that all connected with it are, to the full measure of their responsibility, trustees for the public; that acceptance of a lesser service than the public service is a betrayal of this trust.

I believe that clear thinking and clear statement, accuracy, and fairness, are fundamental to good journalism.

I believe that a journalist should write only what he holds in his heart to be true.

I believe that suppression of the news, for any consideration other than the welfare of society, is indefensible.

I believe that no one should write as a journalist what he would not say as a gentleman; that bribery by one's own pocketbook is as much to be avoided as bribery by the pocketbook of another; that individual responsibility may not be escaped by pleading another's instructions or another's dividends.

I believe that advertising, news and editorial columns should alike serve the best interest of readers; that a single standard of helpful truth and cleanness should prevail for all; that the supreme test of good journalism is the measure of its public service.

I believe that the journalism which succeeds best and best deserves success - fears God and honors man; is stoutly independent, unmoved by pride or opinion or greed of power, constructive, tolerant but never careless, self-controlled patient, always respectful of its readers but always unafraid; is quickly indignant at injustice; is unswayed by the appeal of privilege or the clamor of the mob; seeks to give every man chance, and as far as law and honest wage and recognition of human brotherhood can make it so, an equal chance; is profoundly patriotic while sincerely promoting international good will and cementing world-comradship; is a journalism of humanity, of and for today's world.

Junior Class of Methodist Church Goes to Eustace

Friday afternoon, September 27, after school, Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Fincher carried the Junior Class of the Methodist Church to spend the night at their new home in Eustace, Texas. A picnic supper of sandwiches, pickles, potato chips, cookies, cake and cool aide was enjoyed by all by the side of the road between Center and Timpson.

On arriving in Eustace the children of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Smith, a neighbor, had invited some of the young people over to spend the night with them and to greet the Pinelanders. After much talking and visiting the group finally retired for the night so as to be ready for the next day.

Saturday, after having finished breakfast the group headed for Canton where Rev. and Mrs. Fincher were reared. There we visited with many of their relatives, and on to the farm where we met Papa Fincher, Bro. Fincher's father. Papa Fincher carried us down in the pasture and woods where we found some muscadines, possum grapes, and persimmons. Also we went to a beautiful spring branch where the water was flowing from the earth, which was cool to wade in.

From there we started on our way home. We stopped near Athens and had a picnic lunch made up of many different good foods and drinks. Leaving there our next stop was near Mt. Selman where we visited the "Killiugh Monument" where in the early days the Indians had destroyed a settlement, with the exception of one lady and her child who escaped to tell of the tragedy. The Government has built a large monument to this occasion. The next stop was at "Love's Lookout Park" near Jacksonville, which is a beautiful place. Here we rested for awhile and finally headed for Pineland by way of Troup, New Summerfield, and Nacogdoches, arriving home about 6:15 p.m. a tired group but with ambition to go back next summer when we will have more time to visit about the country and see the different sights, among them is the Kleer Salt Mine near Grand Saline.

Those that went on this trip were: Mattie and David Pierce, Jimmy Neal, Brenda Lindsey, Lannette, Linda and Bill Wright, Jimmy Woods and their class teacher, Mrs. Lovie Fincher and the chauffeur, Rev. Vernon Fincher.

Bread 'n Butter

BY LATANE' TEMPLE

As most people know, my house is in Lufkin. I just delivered on the way to my office two of my children at one of Lufkin's new all steel-brick-concrete schools and I must confess it is with some misgivings that I leave them there. Fires always begin in the contents of buildings rather than the structure. A flame in a building with steel ceiling joists will cause a collapse in a matter of seconds while wood will hold for an indefinite period of time. Fortunately, these steel buildings are all one-story with rapid exits so I know my fears are unfounded.

Speaking of schools, one of my other children came home a few days ago with a story something like this:

"Daddy, we had a funny story in Junior Scholastics today. This boy wrote off to Armstrong Cork to tell them that he wanted to put a new Armstrong floor in his house. They wrote back to ask how big the house was and he said it was for his bird house and it would only take one piece of tile."

The significance of this story is that the competitors to forest products are reaching into the elementary grades of our schools right in the heart of the forest products industry to sell their product in competition with the product that puts bread and butter on our tables. Oak flooring is probably the biggest of the markets into which our hardwood moves and our hardwood forests are about one-fifth of what keeps our wheels turning and our payrolls going.

This is just an illustration of the tremendous problem every one of us has in fighting for our team.

The First Methodist Church has just finished tearing down its auditorium preparatory to building a new place of worship.

The lumber which has been taken out of this building has lost none of its usefulness in the long year of service in the old building and will be used in the new one.

This is another one of southern pine lumber's wonderful merits. Wreck any old house built of southern pine in Diboll and the lumber in it is worth vastly more than when it was put into the building. The only exception would be lumber which has been used in an improper application such as in contact with the ground or with concrete slabs or which has been used where it stays wet and never gets dry. If anything, good southern pine lumber gets better through the years.

Like most men my age in this part of the country, I was in the service during World War II. Everyone who was in Europe must have been deeply impressed as I was with the great value put on wood. This was certainly true in Italy and the reason is that centuries ago the forests were pretty well used up. Nowadays a man has to have permission to cut down a tree on his own land.

One time when I was in Naples the power company had to cut some branches out of some trees along a highway. People gathered in droves to pick up the branches and small twigs and to tie them into fagots. This was the first time in my life I really knew what a fagot was, although I had read Joan of Arc being burned on a pyre of fagots.

Since I was in the Infantry, I moved across country on foot in my combat unit. Whenever I got a chance I would trade my rations with a farmer and get him to let me cook on his rude kitchen hearth. Instead of giving me an armload of stovewood he would give me a few handfuls of straw to burn for fuel.

I noticed they even had a certain kind of tree they would cultivate so they could cut off the limbs and use them for farm construction purposes without ever killing the tree itself.

I guess folks really don't appreciate something until they no longer have it. Our God-given resource in this country which has been conserved and increased in the south through vision is so taken for granted because of its abundance that it even seems to be despised in some of our building right here in the heart of the finest lumber growing region in the world.

Wood is one of the most precious substances given to mankind. It is hard to talk about it without getting too flowery.

Anyway, all of us engaged into working our timber into marketable products can take satisfaction in knowing that it is something good and precious.
